MEMORIAL DAY

1907 Has Passed into History--Did You Assist?

"47" VETERANS IN LINE

The Ranks Growing Thinner Year by Year—It will not be Long Until They all Will Have Answered The Call.

FIRST MEMORIAL DAY AT BOALSBURG

Memorial Day 1907 has passed into history. The thought uppermost in our minds today will we be here to decorate our loved ones grave next year or will some kind friend place a little bunch of flowers on our graves. We cannot tell what a day may bring forth, and no doubt many of our old soldiers who marched in line on Thursday, all over this land of our, will be at rest among the storied dead on Memorial Day 1908. During the past year Gregg Post No. 95, did not loose one of their members. But the old boys are thinning out one by one, it will not be a long time before the last one will answer the call to go home. How they should be honored, by every true American citizen. These men who fought for the flag we all love, and to save the Union from being wiped from the face of the earth.

Thursday was an ideal Memorial Day. The sun shone brightly, the air was warm and pleasant. In fact it was the prettiest Memorial Day we have had for years.

At 2 o'clock the parade formed on the diamond. Capt'n Samuel Williams in command. On the right of line was the Coleville Band, followed by the 5th Regt, Bugle Corp Company B, of the 5th Regt, Gregg Post, Logan Fire Company. The line of march was down High street to Spring up Spring to Bishop up Bishop to Allegheny up Allegheny to Howard where they were met by several hundred school children in charge of Captain Samuel Miller and Miss Elizabeth Dorworth. Each child had a little American flag and a bouquet of flowers. The procession moved on to the cemetery where the old soldiers graves were decorated.

At the grave of Ex-Governor Andrew Gregg Curtin, Ex-Senator William C. Heinle delivered a short address. It was one of the finest the Senator ever made in so short a time. Every citizen in Bellefonte should have heard him. After Mr. Heinle's address a squad from Company B, fired three volleys over the graves of the departed soldiers and over the graves of Andrew G. Curtin and Daniel H. Hastings. The procession then moved to the Court House where Rev. James B. Stein of the Methodist Episcopal church delivered the Memorial address.

The day passed away in a most pleasant manner, no rain or accidents, no drunken men to mar the ceremonies.

It may be of interest to the Bellefonte people to know, that the idea of Memorial Day really first originated in the little town of Boalsburg, Centre County. At least the graves of the old soldiers at this little place were decorated about four years before an ordinance was passed by the United States setting the 30th of May as the time.

On the 4th of July, 1864. Emma Hunter now Mrs. James T. Stuart and Mrs. Sophie Hall went to the Boalsburg cemetery to decorate a grave. While making a cross of flowers and a wreath of the same, the idea suggested itself to the ladies that it would be appropriate, considering the day, to decorate all the graves of the soldiers buried there. Going home the ladies soon procured more flowers and laurel and made a wreath for every grave of a soldier. These ladies certainly have the credit of starting this grand memorial custom.

Those contributing flowers to the G. A. R. are as follows:

John Bradley, Vera Struble, Earl Garbrick, J. S. Carson, Mrs. W. H. Musser, Clay Lyons, David Love, Miss Mary Garbrick, Margaret Young, Miss Alice and Lottie Cole, Minnie and Lizzie Clark, Edward Graner, Albert Flack, Edward Garbrick, Malcolm Young, Paul Fortney, Ivan Hollobaugh, Mazie and Clarence Pardue, Harry Nightbart, Miss Miley Humes, Robert Woodring, Mable Detling, Frederick Koup, Marion Lutz, Mary Stein, Mrs. Jas. L. Harris, Marjie Wagner, Mae Wagner, Robert Garman, Mrs. Robert Nicely, Robert Nicely, Miss Margaret Altenderfer, Ruth Altenderfer, Sarah Wetzel, Bernice Noll, Louisa Cruse Iva Erb, Mabel Miller, Mary Bathurst, Rebecca Cruse, John Woods, John Reed, Jas. Stine, Jr., John Bradley, Carl Garbrick, J. S. Carson.

NOTES.

The stores in town were closed all day.

Country people driving into town on Memorial Day should not tie their horses on the streets along the line of parade.

A great many of the buildings throughout the town had large flags flying. We noticed one hanging from the lodge room at the Red Men's hall. Three large ones strung from the McClain building at the Bush House, put out by the boys at the Centre Social Club. The statue of Ex-Governor Curtin was beautifully draped with Old Glory.

The store window of F. Potts Green, was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a large flag and several old army muskets.

The 5th Regt Bugle corps made a most magnificent appearance on Thursday. It just sounded like olden times. The boys have gotten along splendidly and we certainly do feel proud of them.

Captain Williams who was in command on Thursday was just as spry as a boy of 18. We hope to see him for many years just like he was on Memorial Day.

"47" old soldiers in line on Thursday pretty well thinned out. Some looked pretty tired and worn out with the long march.

Henry Kline and Frank Wetzler sounded "taps" at Hastings grave in a manner that was certainly commendable.

Not as they marched in days of yore.
When strong in war's array;
Not with the same swift eagerness
They press along the way.
For there is weariness of age,
In numbers they are few;
Instead of hosts there now is seen
A weak, thin line of blue.

The drummers beat a slower time
For these now following;
The trumpeters their ardor check,
And mark the slower swing.
For in the blue-clad ranks behind
There's slackening of pace,
And painful is the stride that once
Was made with ease and grace.

But though these heroes' heads are gray,
And slower is their tread,
The same old spirit animates
As when they boldly led;
And though they lack the old-time dash,
Their hearts are just as true
As when they with their comrades marched
A mighty host in blue.

And so again the treasured flag,
Though time-dimmed, stained and torn,
Is taken from its resting place,
And by them proudly borne,
Once more they march to beat of drum,
And reverently they pay
Their tribute to the nation's dead
When comes Memorial Day.

Lock Haven Boy Killed.

A telegram to George C. Harvey, of Mill Hall, from the superintendent of the Pennsylvania and Lake Erie railroad at Pittsburg Sunday conveyed the sad intelligence that Atwood Harvey Krider had been fatally hurt at 7 o'clock Saturday evening and died at ten o'clock that night.

The young man was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Krider of Fairpoint, in Bald Eagle township, and a grandson of A. O. Harvey of Flemington. He was also his namesake. He was 26 years of age and leaves a wife and child living in Fleming.

The deceased was a Spanish war veteran, having served more than three years in the Philipines. Upon his return from the armory he went to railroading at first on duty at Altoona as a fireman and later at Glassport and Pittsburg. No particulars have been given as to how the accident happened.

WEDDING BELLS RING OUT.

Two Of Bellefonte's Young Ladies Become June Brides

BISHOP C. WHITEHEAD

Miss Lingle Becomes The Wife of Mr. Howard Ruger and Miss Weaver is Wedded to Mr. Girard H Child. Church and Home Weddings.

THE ELITE OF BELLEFONTE ATTENDED

Wednesday at noon Miss Virginia Fleetwood Lingle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Lingle, became the wife of Mr Howard Ruger of Janesville, Wisconsin.

The St. John's Episcopal church where the ceremony was performed was filled with guests of the happy young couple. The large edifice was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, ferns, palms and daisies, and presented a sight of rare beauty, the predominating colors being white and gold. Promptly at the noon hour Miss Mary Bradley began the sweet wedding march from the opera Lohengrin and the bridal party proceeded up the centre isle to the Altar where they were met by Bishop Cortland Whitehead of the Pittsburg Diocese who used the simple ring ceremony of the St. John's Episcopal church. Bishop Whitehead was assisted in the services by Rev. J. H. Fairlie of Patton, and Rev. Edwin Richardson of Bellefonte.

The bride who was given away by her father, was charmingly gowned in white messaline trimmed in lace, her veil was of white silk tolle fastened with white ostrich tips and a diamond pin. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white orchids.

Miss Lingle was attended as Matron of Honor by Mrs. Harry Todd of Philipsburg, who wore a gown of white silk net over yellow silk, a hat trimmed in ostrich tips, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Emma and Edna Turnbaugh of Philipsburg. They were beautifully dressed in white silk net over white silk and carried baskets of imported daisies. They wore hats trimmed in daisies and roses.

The best man was Mr. William Ruger a brother of the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Harry Todd, Harvey Lingle, Fred Montgomery, and Harold Lingle. After a delightful wedding breakfast served by caterer Ceader's, at the Lingle home on Linn street, Mr. and Mrs. Ruger left on an extended wedding tour up along the Hudson to Albany, and then up to the Adriondack mountains where they will spend their honeymoon, after which they will return to Bellefonte and will make our town their future home, Mr. Ruger having an interest in the Nittany Lime operations in and around Centre County.

The bride is a most excellent young lady, bright and accomplished, and will make a splendid helpmate through life.

The groom is a young man almost a perfect stranger to the Bellefonte people but since coming here has made many warm and intimate friends who hold him in high esteem. He is an industrious, ambitious young fellow and we know he will make a good husband. We wish them joy and peace over this sea of life.

The guests present from a distance were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. William Ruger, Mrs. Sale, Mrs. Ford, Miss Ford, of Janesville, Wisconsin; Misses Emma, and Edna Turnbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Todd, Mrs. Stein, Mrs. Howe, Mrs. G. A. Lingle, Miss Carrie Lingle, of Philipsburg; Miss Laporte, of Tyrone; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lingle of Patton; Mrs. J. C. Harding of Winber; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Denlinger, Mrs. Martin Lewis, Mrs. Decker, Miss Mullen and Prof. Bruce Meyers of Patton; Wm. H. Sanford and wife of Patton.

WEAVER—CHILD

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Harris on Linn street was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock when their granddaughter Miss Mary Madeline Weaver was united in marriage to Mr. Girard Hall Child of Philadelphia.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Allison Platts, D. D. pastor of the Presbyterian church, in the centre of the large west parlors which were trimmed beautifully with ferns, smilax, laurels, palms and white carnations, the wedding colors being green and white.

Promptly at the above mentioned time Smith's Orchestra began playing the beautiful wedding march from the Lonengrin opera, and the bridal party stepped to the altar and there before one hundred and fifty guests, the happy young couple were made man and wife.

The bride who was given away by her grandfather Mr. John P. Harris, looked beautiful in an Empress gown of white radium over tafleta trimmed with a bertha of Duchess lace, she wore a veil of white tulle fastened with white orange blossoms and a horse shoe brooch set with diamonds, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

She was attended as Matron of Honor by Mrs. Frank Warfield who was charmingly gowned in a light green chiffon. Mr. Frank Warfield acted as best man.

After the ceremony the reception and wedding dinner was held, and until eight o'clock the bride and groom received the best wishes of their many friends.

The bride received many beautiful and useful presents, one large room was completely filled with magnificent gifts sent by her hosts of friends, among them being silver and chinaware, linens, furniture, paintings and rugs. The grooms gift to the bride was a pretty pin of diamonds and pearls. She also received a number of large checks from her parents and grand parents which no doubt will be greatly appreciated.

Miss Weaver has most always lived in Bellefonte, she is a bright and charming young lady with a kind, sweet disposition and has hosts of friends in the town who extend to her a life full of joy and happiness. She will make a good wife, which means a happy home.

Mr. Child is a young business man of Philadelphia, and he is recognized as being a very bright, industrious gentleman and is held in high esteem by the business men of the Quaker City and we feel sure he will make our Bellefonte girl a good husband. We extend to both of them joy and peace through life and may a shadow never cross their path way.

Mr. and Mrs. Child left on the 8:16 train on a wedding tour through the New England States, after which they will make their home in Philadelphia.

The guests present from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Petrikin of Lock Haven; Mrs. Theodore Wells, Wilkesbarre; Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, Charleston, West Va.; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Powell, of Clearfield; Judge and Mrs. Cyrus Gordon, Clearfield; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Weaver, Clearfield; Mrs. Pascaline Tonner, of Clearfield; Mrs. Alma Child and daughter Miss Verona, of Cambridge Mass.; Miss Katharine and Miss Virginia Weaver of Philadelphia; Mrs. Wm. Harris, Lock Haven; Mr. Samuel Harris, of Mill Hall.

BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER.

Ollie Jodon Held Over for Court—$500 Bail

It really does seem to bad that the shooting affair that occurred at Coleville on Sunday evening May 12th, could not have been settled without having it thoroughly aired in our Courts. At the time it seemed like a very small offence but at the hearing this morning evidence was produced against the young man that did the shooting that was damaging and the result was he was bound over for a trial.

It will be clearly remembered, as all the papers made mention of the affair at the time, Ollie Jodon was walking with a young lady down the street at Coleville and met his brother James, it seems these two brother have not been on the best of terms for when they met one said some thing to the other, which made them angry. Ollie Jodon went home secured a revolver and met his brother in front of Garbricks store. He fired three shots into the air none of them hitting the mark fired at. The next day a warrant was sworn out for the young man's arrest Monday he was given a hearing, Four or five witnesses appeared against him with damaging evidence. Davidte Kelley of the American Lime and Stone Company went the young man's bail.

Fast Driving and Automobling Prohibited

At a meeting of the town council Monday evening the Fire and Police committee was instructed to strictly enforce the ordinance prohibiting fast driving or fast automobling within the boro limits. Any one caught exceeding the speed limit will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

COMING STATE CONVENTION.

United States Senator Knox to be Indorsed For The President

TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Senator Penrose Will Confer With His Lieutenants Wednesday.

COMINGS FOR STATE TREASNER

Harrisburg, June 5.—United States Senator Knox will be formally endorsed for president and pledged the support of the Pennsylvania delegation to the next republican national convention by the republican state convention which will be held in this city on Thursday for the nomination of a candidate for state treasurer. Senator Knox interests are in charge of Congressman James Francis Burke, who came here from Pittsburg Tuesday afternoon ann opened headquarters at the Lochiel hotel.

Senator Penrose, who is in hearty accord with the movement for the endorsement of his colleague by the state convention, arrived from Philadelphia Tuesday afternoon and will remain until after the convention. The senior senator will have a conference with his lieutenants Wednesday, at which ex-Senator Henry H. Cummings, of Tidioute, will be endorsed for state treasurer. Ex-Speaker Henry F. Walton, of Philadelphia, will be chairman of the convention, which will be held in the Lyceum theatre. Cumings is the only avowed candidate for treasurer and it is doubtful if there will be any organized opposition to his nomination.

Says he Was held up on the Mountains.

Walter Fry is a brave young man and if Uncle Sam needs a good, brave staunch soldier, we don't know of any one who we could recommend more cheerfully than this young man. Walter is a clerk in Mr. John Meese's store on Allegheny street, and one day during the week he was sent over to Centre Hall to get a horse at the Conly farm, he had heard of the awful tragedy on the Nittany mountains and he resolved in his mind that he would go fully protected. He secured a Colts revolver, one of those kind used by Buffalo Bill, and his tribe, and on his return trip when near the watering trough he says a "man" stepped out and grabbed his horse. He fired three times at the villian and made a clean escape. No blood was shed, nor any one seriously injured, only the young fellow says he was pretty badly frightened. District Attorney Runkle has taken the matter in hand and will do all in his power to run the outlaw down.

New Laws Approved.

Among the bills signed by the Governor during the past week were two that will affect many cities and counties, and the enforcement of both will be attended with considerable interest. They are bills relative to the payment of jurors and witnesses in court and to the killing of untagged dogs.

The former bill will suit many people. At present a juror gives a full day in court for only $2, which is certainly not the most remunerative kind of work. The witness is even more poorly paid, getting $1 a day. Of course there are some witnesses who like to go to court so well that $1 a day is a big pick up in their eyes, but serve as a witness from time to time, there are also persons who have to and to do so for so small a return is an actual hardship. The new law increases the juror's pay to $2:50 a day and the pay of witnesses to $1:50 a day.

A new dog law also goes into effect. The brief title of the bill sets forth that it is to provide for the killing of dogs that run loose, wearing no collars containing tags that are to be proof that a tax on the dog has been paid. Bellefonte has dogs in plenty and a few to spare, and there are those who will not regret the killing off of a certain percentage of them in a legal manner.

The governor has also signed the Mesta bill, which is designed to make "bucket shops" quit business in this state. Heavy penalties and imprisonment are imposed for violating the law.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.

Bellefontes Statesman and Soldiers General James A. Beaver Honored.

In the Lock Haven Express of Friday's issue appeared a lengthy story from Beech Creek in which the writer speaks of our BEAVER the man who is honored and loved by all of us. The story is complimentary from beginning to end and it is with pleasure that we are permitted to publish it. The article reads as follows:

What was undoubtedly the greatest Memorial Day ever witnessed in this community was that of Thursday when Beech Creek joined Blanchard and held a splendid observance. Both boroughs were decorated everywhere with flags and bunting and dozens of large flags were stretched across the streets. Perfect weather brought everybody out, from far and near, from many other towns, perhaps more particularly to hear the orator of the day, the Hon. James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, soldier and statesman, ex-governor of the great state of Pennsylvania, now serving his second term as Judge of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, a man honored at home and afar; not only for what he has been, his service for state and union, but the gentleman, the manner of man he is, the citizen of the truest and best type whom men approach easily and are glad to honor.

The school children sang the spirited song, "Dear Old U. S. A." with vigor and enthusiasm. Then General Beaver was introduced to the audience and spoke for 45 minutes, holding the rapt attention of his large audience from beginning to end. It was not a stereotyped Memorial Day address, but, as the general put it, "a heart to heart talk" and what he said and the way he said it was as impressive as it was true and good. The good humor of the general and his reminiscences caught the audience from the start. The speaker said he would not, could not, in the brief time allotted, consider all of the reasons for observing Memorial day, but at this time he wanted to speak particularly of the sacrifice made by the men, who, at Lincoln's call, took the oath of allegience when mustered into service and gave up his life, not figuratively but literally speaking for the soldiers who died in battle, made no greater sacrifice then the one who survived and came home. It is this offering up of one's life—that which we all hold so dear—this self sacrifice for his country, that we today applaud, observe and honor.

In every day life, in the days of peace, it is the man who makes a sacrifice for his fellow man, for those he loves, for those in need and distress, for his country or for his good, that makes life a success. It is not the conspicuous life always which is the greatest success. It is not the life of a Gould, a Sage, a Harriman that is a success. A man who lives unto himself is a failure, no matter how much wealth he may accumulate.

Among many other good things the general said was that he believed that it was a good thing, a fine thing indeed, to give to the old soldiers who are alive today a bouquet now and then. Don't give all the bouquets to the dead. The dead deserve greatest honor, but it cheers the old heart and gladdens a life whose shadows are lengthening out fast, to hand him a bouquet—a bouquet not only of fairest flowers, but of respect, of honor, of kindness and of consideration, a token and a recognition of a service well performed of a sacrifice well made.

The general spoke feelingly and gave utterance to many beautiful thoughts. He was, he said, unusually reminiscent o nthis occasion and no part of his address was more appreciated than this. It was a genuine treat for all present to listen to General Beaver, and his coming here on this day was received as very complimentary. The general was saluted on every hand and he was particularly impressed by the honor accorded him by the long line of parade as it passed him in the diamond and each one saluted the soldier and statesman.

The Largest Mortgage Ever Recorded in Centre County.

On Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock a young man from Harrisburg walked into the Recorders office in the Court house here and placed in the hands of Recorder John C. Rowe, to be recorded, the largest mortgage ever placed on record in Centre County. It was for $25,000,000 and was against the newly organized American Union Telephone Company, of which Hon. Ellis L. Orvis, of Bellefonte is President. It is in favor of the Pittsburg Title and Guarantee Company. It is being recorded in all the counties in which the company does business.

Dan's Business Course.

By JAMES BRUCE.

"But that was downright dishonest," said Dan.

"It was businesslike," corrected Phillips. "Mason should not have announced his plans. He bragged about them, and if Bray jumped in and got ahead of him it simply shows Bray's superior business ability."

"That is why you prefer Bray as a son-in-law?" queried Dan. "You want Mabel to marry a business manager, as it were."

"That is rather a blunt way of putting it," said Phillips uneasily. "It would be better to say that Bray's business qualifications are a point strongly in his favor."

"While my lack of them is to my discredit?"

"You do not have the knack of seizing your opportunities," said Phillips. "Now, take my case. I know that the Smelter and Exploration company purposes getting concessions in Borona. I am going to take a run down there and get the railroad franchise through Camar. Camar is on the coast, and the company will have to pay me well for what will cost me practically nothing. That is business. You might enlarge your fund of geographical information, but it would never occur to you to profit by what you learn."

"There's hope yet," said Dan lightly as he rose. "Meanwhile I am to understand that your consent to my marriage with Mabel is refused?"

"Withheld," corrected Phillips. He never gave a definite answer when he could help it. "Perhaps in the future"— Dan nodded. Perhaps in the future his uncle might make him his heir.

John Phillips turned to his desk, with the consciousness of an unpleasant episode cleverly closed. It was not until the next morning that his eyes were opened. Mabel had run away. "I have gone with Dan," she wrote. "I want a husband, not a valuable addition to the firm of Phillips & Kent."

Phillips shrugged his shoulders and went his way. Deep in his heart her desertion hurt, but with several big operations pending he could not afford to waste time. He shut his ears to the talk of his associates, but as the days went on and Dan and Mabel did not appear to ask parental forgiveness his anxiety grew. He had supposed that when the honeymoon was over they would come back. He was almost tempted to delay his trip to Camar.

But there was no one else in the firm who spoke Spanish well enough to be trusted with the negotiations, and so the Mabel, his luxuriously appointed yacht, slipped down the bay and in due course of time anchored in the landlocked harbor of Porveda.

It took him two days to gain an audience with the president of the tiny republic, for there had just been a revolution, and matters were slow in straightening out. Alvadora, the new president, spoke English haltingly, but English he would speak, and Phillips, tactful, but impatient, chafed inwardly at the delay. He spoke Spanish fluently, and in ten minutes he could have approached the subject had the president held to his native tongue, but this was precisely what the president would not do.

"I spik the English. Is it not so?" he cried. "Bonato not one word could he spik—he who would be presidente. It is to chickle, is it not?"

"Another language makes another man," quoted Phillips from an advertising card he had seen in the street cars. "I compliment your excellency."

"My thanks," said Alvadora. "You are my friend. Is it not so?"

"But about this concession," pressed Phillips. "Of course a railroad would not pay very much, but we are looking into the future, when the road shall have made Camar great."

"Ah, yes, the railway," said Alvadora dreamily. "For him you shall see my business manager."

"Your prime minister?" suggested Phillips correctingly.

"Is it that I spik the English so bad?" demanded the president reproachfully. "Non. It is you who do not understand."

"But a business manager is not an official of state, but of commerce," persisted Phillips.

"My frien'," pleaded the president, "let us not argue. See my business manager in the morning. Look; I shall send him to you. Yes?"

"Thank you," said Phillips. "But meanwhile let me show you the advantage of such a proposition."

Alvadora waved him off. Business matters were for the business manager. He was the president. It was not well that he should interfere.

Phillips went away thoroughly disgusted, and his bad temper held the next morning as he waited at the hotel for the advent of this mysterious official, nor did his wrath cool when a card was brought to him and he read, "Daniel Carter Curtis, Business Manager, Republic of Camar."

"I have been instructed by the president that you wished to see me in the matter of some concession," said Dan as he entered resplendent in white flannel. "I presume that it has to do with the project that we discussed in your office not long ago."

"How the devil did you get here?" demanded Phillips blankly.

"Dicky Etern had his yacht at Palm Beach. He brought us over," explained Dan. "You seemed irritated that I had not jumped Mason's scheme, so I came down here to get in on this railroad matter."

"And brought Mabel with you?"

"Mrs. Curtis hopes that you will do us the honor of dining with us this evening."

"I'll be hanged if I do!" stormed Phillips. "This caps the climax. You steal my daughter and my ideas and then calmly invite me to dine with you as though nothing had happened."

"Then do not let us air our private quarrel," suggested Dan. "You want a concession. Alvadora is pleasantly impressed by your appreciation of his English and has instructed me to be as liberal as is consistent with safeguarding the interests of the republic."

"I could have got the concession for a song if you had not interfered," stormed Phillips, "but your underhand action"—

"Hold on!" said Dan. "You told me that was good business. To quote your own words, Mason had no business to announce his plans. Neither had you. I came down here and found that Bonato, the then executive, did not see my scheme, so I helped the revolutionists along and got the job from Alvadora. I get one-third on all foreign concessions. I think I'll make a good thing out of it."

"You overthrew the president?" gasped Phillips. "It was your work?"

"It was easy," said Dan modestly. "They had been talking of it before I came along. I just helped 'em to put it through. You see, Bonato was in the way."

"And you induced Mabel to elope with you?"

"She did not want to marry a man for his business qualifications alone," explained Dan. "That interview convinced her that you would not accede to my request, so we were married and started down here for our honeymoon. We rather thought you would be glad to see how well I had developed your suggestion."

"I guess I am," said Phillips weakly. "You can tell her that I shall be over tonight, and, Dan, I take back all I said about your capacity for business. You make out a concession on what you think is a fair basis, and I'll sign. I'm getting old, my boy, and I have had shock enough for one day."

Hint For Book Lenders.

A book borrower's album is the device which a woman who has a fine library has employed in order that she may keep track of her books and that her friends may not be delinquent in returning them. She delighted in lending her books, but was far from pleased in punching her friends up for their return. Now when a friend asks the loan of a book she acquiesces readily enough, but requests the borrower to write in the album his or her name and the date on which the book is borrowed. On returning it the borrower is asked to comment on the book and initial it. This album always is kept in a conspicuous place in the drawing room, where visitors are likely to pick it up and glance it through, learning who is not prompt in returning books. The result is that this woman now has her books returned promptly, as the borrowers know they will be convicted in the album if they are delinquent. They take kindly to the plan, the lender does not have to prod them for the return of the books, and she has an album which is valuable to her as containing the comments of her friends on the treasures in her library.—New York Press.

EDNA MAY'S NEXT MARRIAGE.

Her Reported Engagement to the Rich Oscar Lewisohn.

Devotees of the stage have been much interested in the announcement that Edna May will marry a millionaire before the year is over and will then terminate her career as an actress. The lucky man is Oscar Lewisohn, son of the late copper magnate, Adolph Lewisohn of New York. Young Lewisohn has a fine estate in England, called Summer Hill, near Ascot, and this will be the home of the actress after her marriage, according to the statement of her father, Edgar C. Petrie, a Syracuse (N. Y.) letter carrier, who recently returned from a visit to his daughter Edna and her two sisters in London. Miss May is now appearing in London in "Nellie Neal." Her contemplated marriage will not be her first venture into matrimony. She was formerly the wife of Fred Titus, the professional bicycle rider. She obtained a divorce from him about two years ago. A year ago her name was coupled with that of Oscar Lewisohn, but she told inquirers that he was only "a platonic friend." Instead of her wedding him or anybody else "within forty-eight hours," she said, she would be pleased if the newspapers would "raise the time limit to forty-eight years."

Edna May made her first appearance on the stage when she was seventeen in the chorus at the Olympia theater, New York. Later on she was "discovered" by George W. Lederer when he was rehearsing "The Belle of New York." He gave her the part of the Salvation lassie, in which she made a hit. Soon after she went to London, and her popularity there has been phenomenal.

Wooden Anchors.

The Basques, a strange race intermediate between French and Spaniards, have for all time been great fishermen, and some of their craft and sedgoing gear are totally different from any other known types. Perhaps the most remarkable relic of bygone civilizations is the primitive wooden anchor still in use among them and to be seen in the fishing settlements round Biarritz, Guethary or St. Jean de Luz. These wooden anchors are in all probability of the identical type in use among the Phoenicians twenty centuries ago. The wooden anchor is rough hewn out of three branches, so fastened to a crossbar, also of wood, as to inclose a great stone of twenty or thirty pounds weight. Here is a cheap but effectual anchor for comparatively light boats. It can be made on the spot, and it entails little loss if, in a sudden squall, it has to be left imbedded in the rocks.

The Scope of Indigestion.

Indigestion is not only the most prevalent of all diseases, but is the most far reaching in its complications, says Dr. Latson in Health Culture. In recognition of this fact a brilliant medical man has said:

"There is but one disease—indigestion."

Cayenne Pepper.

In cayenne pepper we have a pure, energetic, permanent stimulant. Why not use it instead of whisky and brandy, which are not more energetic and are not permanent in their actions? says Therapeutics and Dietetics.

Like Father, Like Son.

The Living Skeleton—Why is the india rubber man so happy? The Fat Lady—Why, haven't you heard? He's the father of a bouncing boy!—Princeton Tiger.

The Teeth.

The accumulation of tartar on the teeth makes them unsightly and is often the cause of a bad breath. If the teeth are properly brushed each day tartar will not have the chance to accumulate, but if it has already been allowed to do so it can be removed by a very simple treatment. Moisten the toothbrush in warm water and dip it into magnesia. Rub on the teeth, and after three applications the tartar will have entirely disappeared.

Old Farmer Jones Says.

He stopped at Ed Longwells on his way to town to see what date it was on his calander and found Ed forgot to tear off the month of April, he was just one month behind, this accounts for such cold weather we are having. Just wait until the weather man gets a hold of Ed. People should be very careful about small things.

The difference between the farm and town boys is this, when farm boys want some exercise they roll potatoes out of the ground, and when the town boys want exercise they go to the pool room and roll billyards and pool.

Say that ere man who writes them ere that's in the that column of the Centre Democrat is very much exercised over girls lacing so much, and about once a week he gives them a hint not to do it. Now a little squeezing wont hurt them any and if they wait for that scribe to do the job they will surely be in the maiden lady class Why he don't know the difference between a corset and an ash hopper. I'll bet a mess of roasting ears to fifty cents.

Now election has come again and there is very little paid for votes this years, I guess because there ain't much use as nobody wants the offices. There was a small meeting at Knoxes school house once and Jim Schofield made such an impression on the people that it has listed ever since and after Jim got thro talking or rather after they stopped him, (for if they haden't Jim would be talking yet,) there was a man with a hair lip got up and volunteered to sing a piece entitled "The hip that never Returned," but before he had finished I left for fear I would forget what Schofield had said.

Now there is a secret in successful farming as well as holding your boys on the farm, and success is only derived by keeping an interest that your sons will want to follow the same occupation. Now the way I was interested when I was a boy Dad just took me into partnership with him on the farm, we had ten horses dad had nine, and I had one, mine was a colt then we had twelve cows, dad had eleven and I had one, dads cows was all fresh and mine was always dry but I sold mine for beef and bought a dozen sheep and from them I got my start. Now we had a neighbor who was just the reverse with his boy, he gave him a pig and after it grew up the old man said, Willie we will just sell your pig and buy boots for you and I. Now this same man also had a daughter and after she was married he bargained with his son-in-law to buy a cow in partnership as they all lived togather. Of course the son-in-law could not refuse, the old man milked the cow and sold all the milk. He said he bought the hindpart of the cow and made his son-in-law buy all the feed for the cow because he claimed he had the front part of the cow. Now that is not all one day the cow turned around and hooked the old man and now he has brought suit against his son-in-law for damages. So you see there are two sides to the farm question, some funny things happen. One of our neighbors bought a side hill plow, he thought it was fine he just plowed straight up and down the hill, the same man when he would write a postal card always enclosed it in an envelope and put a stamp on, then when the R. F. D. was established, John Ebbs did not put any stamps on his letters he thought they were carried free. Farming is much easier now than it usto be, why when I was a boy we had to churn for a half day to get butter and use so much hot water that when we did get butter it jus looked like a smashed potatoes and had to sell it for half price, and do you know the first day I was married my wife wanted me to go right down and see Isaac Underwood and get a sixty-five dollar cream seperster and then go up town and get a fifty dollar sewing machine and all these new fandangled things to keep house with. I told her my folks did not have them when they started house keeping; but she gave me to understand that things have changed since I was a boy?

Now I really believe this is the reason there are so many old maids and batchlors in the country to day, it seems to cost to much to start troting in double harness. There is some old maids in Bellefonte who can tell you how to raise children I heard a little boy one day call one grandmother, and old batchlors, well they are plenty too, not excepting editors and clerks, yes there are some thinking about hitching up long until, their heads are as bald as the Pyramids of Egypt.

But say don't you think for one minute that Bellefonte aint in it when it comes to pretty girls, there is the dog gondest finest galls there you ever saw —One certain girl cal's me "uncle" every time I meet her.

Now my wife still insists that I can't write "Poultry" but I have a dozen subjects to write on yet, and while I was getting a poke of penuts at sourbecks this morning? I heard a squabble and the following subject dropped into my Cranium Entitled;

HOT TIMES ON HIGH STREET.

In Bellefonte in a certain flat,
A heap of trouble's brewing;
If matters don't get righted soon.
There'll sure be something doing.

It seems that papers, clothes and cans,
The trouble now is causing;
It goes right on from day to day.
Without a moments pausing.

The women first got in the fuss.
Like women, always scrapping,
But husbands now are in it too,
And thus the climax capping.

The baloon will soon be starting now,
With hot-air she's over-flowing;
Just keep your eye on Petrikin Hall,
And you'r sure to see it going.

The American Magazine for June.

Any one of the four things in the June American Magazine would have made the number a good one: Edwin Lefevre's character sketch of Harriman, Ellis Parker Butler's story of "Wetter New York in 1913," Ray Stannard Baker's account of "The Negro in Southern City Life," or Ida M. Tarbell's story of Grover Cleveland's great fight in 1887.

In the same number the author of "Emmy Lou" tells another Letitia story. Elizabeth Irwin writes of the most famous artists' model in the world. F. Marion Crawford goes on with his serial, and David Grayson writes of "The Tramp," in his "Adventures in Contentment" series

Other contributors of stories and poems are: M. J. Reynold's, Witter Bynner, Walter A. Frost, Frances Bent Dillingham, Cale Young Rice, and Walter Richard Eaton.

"The Interpreter" talks about socialism.

Killed by a Large Stone.

A most distressing accident occurred a mile west of Aughenbaugh station, Clinton Co., shortly after 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, whereby the life of Miss Margaret Hauton, of Aughenbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hauton, was cruelly crushed out by a large stone hurled by a blast.

The young lady, who was but 17 years of age, had been at the Pine post office getting mail and after visiting friends started down the railroad tracks for her home a little before 1 o'clock. Just as she was passing the point where a gang of the Pinkerton Construction companys men were at work a heavy blast was set off. A large rock was hurled in the direction of Miss Hauton, which struck her on the head killing her instantly. The remains were picked up and taken to the deceased's home by the Lock Haven work train.

The accident has greatly shocked all the residents in that section, for Miss Hauton was a bright, active girl, possessing a most lovable disposition. She taught a summer school at Pine, which was closed only last week.

The young lady's father was formerly a boss on the Pinkerton operations, but is now working at Canton, Pa. The family have had much trouble in the past. About two years ago a brother of the deceased was killed by the cars near Philipsburg.

As the girl met her death in Lycoming county, the coroner of that county was notified, and is making an investigation.

GOVERNOR HAS SIGNED

Bill Creating a Commission of Railways.

THREE COMMISSIONERS.

ecti ons of Constitution to be Enforced For The Government of These Corporations.

OTHER RAILROAD BILLS SIGNED

Harrisburg, June 1.—Governor Stuart Friday signed the railway commission bill creating a commission of three members who shall have general supervision over the railway commerce of the state. The commission will not have absolute power to enforce its rulings, however, being limited to recommending action to the Governor and the attorney general. The commissioners are to be appointed by the Governor for terms of three years each, the salary to be $8,000 a year.

The Governor also signed the four bills to enforce Sections of article 17 of the state constitution relating to railroads. These bills provide that no common carrier shall mine or manufacture articles for transportation over its lines nor engage in any business except that of a common carrier; that no common carrier shall discriminate for or against any patron; that after January 1, 1908, no railroad, canol or other corporation shall be consolidated with any parallel or competing line, and that all individuals, associations and corporations shall have equal rights in patronizing common carriers. Each bill imposes a fine of from $500 to $1,000 upon each corporation and each officer thereof for violations.

Keep the Balance Up.

It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness, or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge in is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's for appetite, strength and endurance.

—You're to be the judge; we leave it to you to decide; all we want is your verdict —Will Hollister's; Rocky Mountain Tea make you well and keep you well? That's fair. Tea or Tablets, 35 cents. C. M. Parrish.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A little Kodol taken occasionally, especially after eating, will relieff sour stomach, belching and heartburn. J. B. Jones, Newport, Tenn., writer; "I am sure one 3 dollar bottles of your Kodol positively cured me of of dyspepsia, and I can reccommend it as that was three years ago and I haven't been bothered since with it." Kodol is guaranteed to give relief. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol
For Dyspepsia

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol relieves Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat

Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

In bottles only. Two sizes, fifty cents and one dollar.

[illegible]en's Phramacy

THE JAPANESE.

He Is Child, Fanatic and Emotional Savage All In One.

He is a bundle of contradictions, and, measured by American standards, he is a bedlamite, straight from topsy turvy land. He may be a Chesterfield and a cheerful liar one minute and a red Indian the next—a sycophant and a welsher today and a Napoleon tomorrow.

We westerners have been taught to regard the little Jap as an amusing and precocious child given to obstructing sidewalk traffic with his polite contests in kowtowing, to suspending from the branches of the cherry tree his dainty poems addressed to his friends and to dawdling for hours over the ceremonial tea, and when we see him under the tent flap, bowing and laughing and playing checkers, he seems a velvet pawed kitten in khaki. And yet you and I have seen him in battle a ramping, raging tiger, greedy of Slav bayonets and afterward dragging himself to the field hospital, shot to rags, unwhimpering, a mere bull hide wrapped around a will.

We never know a character until we have seen it put to the test under stress—least of all the combination of sphinx and Janus known as the Japanese. So studied, the embattled brown boy strikes me as a strange compound of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Peter the Hermit and Sitting Bull—child, fanatic and emotionless savage, all in one.—Appleton's Magazine.

OLD VIOLINS.

Reasons Why Ancient Fiddles Are Better Than New.

Fabulous prices are sometimes paid for old violins, and many an enthusiastic musician would part with his last dollar to possess one of the masterpieces of Stradivarius or Guarnerius or another of the famous makers of a century or two ago.

The questioned superiority of these old and often battered instruments has been variously ascribed to the peculiar quality of the varnish used in their construction, to the elasticity of the wood employed and to the ripening and improving effects of age and long use.

Of late years, however, much credence has been given the suggestion of an eminent authority that the real cause of the superiority of the old instruments is due to a peculiar warping of the wood to a higher arch, a buckling caused by the position of the "F" holes and sound post.

It might at first thought be supposed that the same effect could be produced by giving an equal arching to a new instrument, but the effect, if attained, is not permanent, because with age the arching increases until too great a degree of rigidity is the result.—Philadelphia Record.

BLEEDING A KING.

Louis XIV., a Greedy Physician and an Unscrupulous Surgeon.

In 1693, when Louis XIV. began to feel the first touches of age, his physicians ordered him to be bled once a month. That duty was of course intrusted to Marechal, his Irish surgeon.

There was at the time in Paris, says the British Medical Journal, a young brother of the craft who conceived the idea of making his fortune by bleeding the king. The enterprise was difficult, but he knew that the most solid doors can often be opened with a golden key.

Following the advice of Iago, he put money in his purse and sought an introduction to Antoine Daquin, the king's chief physician. The negotiation was conducted on a strict business footing. Daquin, who was known to love money, was told that 10,000 crowns were deposited with a notary who had instructions to transfer the sum to him as soon as the surgeon had got the job.

It was not an easy thing to manage, as Marechal never left the king. One day, however, he asked permission to leave Versailles for three days. Daquin seized the opportunity to introduce his protege, whom he had ready at hand for the purpose. Feeling the king's pulse one morning, as usual, he pretended to be alarmed at its strength and volume and ordered the illustrious patient to be bled forthwith. As Marechal was away, the king hesitated, but fear soon made him yield to his physician's proposal. The young surgeon bled the king, and Daquin got his money.

In the meantime a message had been dispatched for Marechal, who was not far off. He returned to Versailles in haste and was much surprised to find that the king, whom he had left in the best of health, had been bled. He was not on friendly terms with Daquin, and he quickly grasped the situation. He went to see the young surgeon and forced him to disclose the whole plot.

When the king learned the truth, he flew into a terrible rage, ordered Daquin to be arrested and placed the matter in the hands of the council of state. That obsequious body, after a very short deliberation, unanimously voted that the physician who had trafficked in the blood of the king deserved death. The royal wrath, however, subsided to some extent, and he graciously spared Daquin's life, but deprived him of his office and exiled him from the court to Quimper-Corentin. The too greedy physician did not long survive his disgrace.—London Standard.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Cheerfulness is a great aggravation to an angry man.

Nearly every one thinks he is a good judge of human nature.

You can't do anything very well if you don't want to do it.

It is not difficult to prove you are right from your own point of view.

How people economized in the old days! But not many people do it now.

Some men would do wonderful things if some little thing were not in the way.

When a boy wants a favor from his parents he asks his father's permission and tells his mother he is going to do it.

The average friendship is wrecked upon the fact that the average person's idea of a friend is some one he can impose upon.—Atchison Globe.

Burro Drivers Carry Candles.

In Mexico all vehicles, be they handcart, automobile or anything between, must carry a light at night. This rule or law is rigidly enforced. Even the drivers of the poor little burro or mule carts, on their two wheels, must carry a light. So, rather than buy lanterns, which cost money, they take a dip candle, and wrapping it in a bit of newspaper to shield it from the wind carry it in their left hand as they drive along homeward from work after evening has fallen. The effect is striking, as the light falling strongly on the Indian driver throws the face of the man into strong relief against the darkness. —Modern Mexico.

English Jurors' Remuneration.

The scale of remuneration of English common jurymen is absurd. In a civil case in England a common juryman is allowed 5 shillings ($1.25) a day for "a view"—that is, for inspecting any property or thing in dispute—but otherwise he is, in law, not entitled to any remuneration. It is usual, however, in the high court to give him a fee of 1 shilling and in the counties 8 pence. Special jurymen receive much higher remuneration. The fee in the county court is 1 shilling a case, in the mayor's court 2 pence and in the London sheriff's court 4 pence.—Chambers' Journal.

Not Hopeful.

"'Tis a fine, elegant husband you have, ma'am," said Maggie. "Him and me was talkin' about Ireland this mornin'. He's traveled as far as many a gentleman. And there ain't many husbands as good to their wives, ma'am. Look how he brings you lettuces and things from the market. But dear, dear! That kind never lives long."—Newark News.

Independent Criticism.

A little girl sat gazing fixedly at the new bonnet of one of her mother's visitors until the caller smilingly asked. "Do you like it, my dear?"

The child innocently replied: "Yes, I do. Mamma and Aunt Milly said it was a perfect fright, but it doesn't frighten me a bit."

He who commits an injustice is ever made more wretched than he who suffers it.—Plato.

The Right One.

"Sir, I want your daughter's hand."

"You may have it with the greatest pleasure, dear boy, if you'll take the one that's always in my pocket."—Baltimore Sun.

"Plugging" a Hotel Guest.

The hotel detective stepped out of the elevator and walked over to the counter.

"Well, I plugged him," he said.

"Plugged him? Who? What for? Where did you hit him?" quickly asked a friend who was standing by.

"Didn't hit him anywhere. Just plugged the keyhole of his door. Never hear of plugging before? When we have a guest whom we suspect is getting ready to leave without settling or whose credit is exhausted and fails to settle up, we just wait till he leaves his room and plug the keyhole in his door. Then he has to settle up or leave his baggage. The plug fits over the end of a key. It is placed in the lock and turned. The key is then withdrawn, leaving the plug in the door." —Kansas City Star.

An Oversight.

When Chappie got up the other morning he wandered around his apartments in his pretty pink pajamas, the very picture of woe.

"What's the matter, sir?" inquired his valet.

"I don't know, Alphonse," he groaned. "I passed a most unhappy night."

Alphonse looked him over carefully.

"Oh, sir," he exclaimed, "I know what was the matter! The trouserines of your pajamas were not creased. You must be more careful, sir. Those I had prepared for you were hanging across the foot of the bed."—Bohemian Magazine.

Cannae.

Cannae, where Hannibal won his greatest victory over the Romans, is situated on the opposite side of the peninsula from the city of Rome, on the river Aufidus and about six miles from its mouth. It was from this battlefield that Hannibal sent to Carthage three bushels of gold rings from the fingers of the Roman knights slain in the battle. Cannae is about 200 miles from Rome.

The Cheerful Man.

What a boon he is in everybody's life! Like a bright sunrise and a gentle south wind, coming together on a winter morning, he is to all who cross his path. He brushes cheerily along, knocking grief and dissapointment out of his path, and leaving it fringed with flowers. Such a man is worth a great deal to the world; more than all his money, his wisdom of his ambitious schemes. People feel a sort of pleasure just seeing him coming down the street, and when they meet him, there is not a cloud in sight.

Such men are a blessing to a town. They make one feel that the town is growing, is getting more beautiful, more than a place just to eat and sleep and make a living in. Sometimes one doesn't meet such men, and then he feels that the town is degenerating, that things are going wrong, and that the evil spirit is trying to put a little malice in his heart and he goes home and meets his wife's smile with a feeling of suspician.

A cheerful man doesn't realize the amount of good he is doing in the world. But it is his nature and he cannot help it. Heaven has picked him out as one of his angels, and he is faithful to his mission. Every day some fellow has been made happy by his pleasant smile and his genial "good morning"; and if one has a bit of business with him, it passes by very much like an exchange of compliments.

To be cheerful may not be so great a duty as to be honest or unselfish, but it certainly widens the radience of these virtues.

Eastern Capitalists Invests.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 20th. The sale to E. L. Ashley of New York, of the H. K. Willock property at 307 Market Street, this city, for $180.375, is an evidence that non-residents appreciate the value and future of Pittsburg business property, and possibly have a keener perception of its possibilities than the average Pittsburg investor. The deal was a cleancut one, and had odd features. No agreement was drawn for the sale nor was any hand money paid. Each party took the others word and when the title passed examination the purchase was closed and the money paid over. When the structure is rented to its capacity, its annual earning power is about $14,000. Mr. Ashley is said to represent a syndicate of Eestern men who are out to buy Pittsburg property. The purchases are to be either for investment or speculation, as conditions justify. The man or woman who can save a few dollars a week has an elegant opportunity to invest in Greater Pittsburg reality. Address G. M. Cypher & Company, McKeesport, Pa. and a booklet will be sent you free.

CHARLE C. TUTEN,

THE COMING OF RUTH.

Y. M. C. A. Arranging for Great Local Entertainment.

Beautiful Cantata that has given fine results elsewhere, will possibly be rendered in Bellefonte in the near future.

The local Young Men's Christian Association has lately come in touch with Dr. W. T. Noss, the author and director of the beautiful musical drama, "The coming of Ruth," and an attempt is being made to have him come and conduct the preparation and rendition of this biblical oratoria in Bellefonte, using our local musical organizations for the purpose. In order to give the most satisfactory results, it is necessary to have a company of a hundred or more singers. As the course of instruction will be an exceedingly valuable one, and as the expenses of it will be taken out of the proceeds of the final entertainment, there should be no difficulty in securing double the number of people asked for. It is not often that our young people have an opportunity of getting free, a course of instruction in music and dramatic culture which, if taken privately, would cost from fifteen to twenty dollars for each person. And the chief beauty of it is that those who take part will have the satisfaction of knowing they are helping "the boys" at the same time in which they are doing work that is of great pleasure and profit to themselves. It is certainly an opportunity which no one should miss. We understand that all the musical people of the city, both young and old, are invited to take part, and that many of the best singers have already signified their intention of doing so. "The Coming of Ruth" is highly spoken of wherever it has been performed, and with such a company as that now asked for, it will probably be one of the finest entertainments ever offered in our town. Those who wish to take part in "The Coming of Ruth should at once leave their names with Mr. Godfrey, the Physical Director, at the Y. M. C. A. building.

Wetting New York.

Ellis Parker Butler, of "Pigs is Pigs" fame, tells a tale of New York in 1913 in the June American Magazine. He calls it "Wetter New York." The "photographs" accompaning the story are startling. There is a "sure enough" photograph of the Flatiron Building—street, people and all—but the street is filled with water. An excursion steamer of moderate size is just rounding into Twenty-third street. To starboard lie a couple of yachts, and to port are seen several launches headed up Broadway. Madison Square is "photographed" with a big Steam yacht in its centre—with the man abroad "who now rides by water from his home on Fifth Avenue to his office in Wall Street." Wall Street is repoduced, but in the midst is the author's hero, the multimillionaire Markright, who, garped in a diver's suit, and guarded by a police tug, is "playfully gathering up the money that other men have dropped."

A Man Without Friends.

Edwin Lefevre's article on Harriman's brusqueness. According to the following testimony, introduced by Mr. Lefevre, Harriman has no friends

"A man who is perhaps Mr. Harriman's closest associate said once, when his partner suggested that some friend of Mr. Harriman ought to speak to him frankly on the unwisdom of his lack of tact: 'Friend? I don't believe that Harriman has a friend in the world!' The man who said this is a very great financier who has been in, and has had an active interest in every deal of Mr. Harriman's since 1899.

Stores Will Close Early.

A petition is being circulated among our business men for the closing of the stores at 6 o'clock. In one way we say it is a good idea, in another way it is inconvenient to the farmers especially during this season of the year, when they are busy on their farms, and really the only time they have to spare to come to town and buy is in the evening. But to look at it in the other light—the clerks and merchants go to their places of business early in the morning and work till eight o'clock, and when the day's work is done they are tired and feel like retiring, hardly having a half hour with their families. If the stores would close at 6 o'clock they could spend the evenings at home or go to the Park, and then they would feel as though they had some thing to live for, besides work, work, work. It is certainly a mighty tiresome task to stand behind a counter all day and smile at people whether you feel like it or not, and then often times after you have taken down all the goods you have in the store to show they say, "Well, give me a sample and I will show it to Mrs. Troxel and see what she thinks about it." We've been there and know what it is like, don't we Foster? So we say close at six o'clock and give your clerks the summer evenings off.

The Most Useful Flower.

"Roses and lilies yield cologne," said the florist, "and violet petals candied are edible, but the most useful of all flowers is the poppy. The juice of the poppy gives us opium. The seed is pleasant and nutritious. Poppy seed cake is one of the best cattle foods. And the oil answers a hundred purposes. It is used to mix artists' colors, to cook with like olive oil), to make soap and to burn in lamps. Truly, besides the industrious poppy the idle lily and the rose must hang their heads."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

REV. SCHMIDT IN ROME.

Interesting Letters Written Discribing his Voyage and the Sights in Italy.

Sunday, May 5, 1907.

To the Congregation, and Sunday School of St. John's Reformed Church.

My dear Friends:

This is our second Sunday out on the ocean and I have been thinking of the congregation and the boys and girls at home. This morning services were held in the large dining room at 10 o'clock. At 3 o'clock Sunday School classes met all over the ship and those who did not attend any of the other classes were enrolled in the Home Department, given lesson papers and promised to study the lesson. Tonight we hold another service at 8:30. Everyday a morning and evening is held. They are well attended, the singing is good and the addresses are helpful.

I wish you could see the ocean as it has been the past two day. It is rolling in good sized waves, and as a result our ship dips and rolls a great deal. It takes steady feet to walk around the deck. I can imagine some of the boys and girls asking, "I wonder if Mr. Schmidt got sea sick." Not yet, thus far I have proved a good sailor but I will not boast until I set feet on land once more.

Last Friday we visited the largest of the Azore Islands, San Michael, its chief city is Ponta Delzada. We were then 2074 miles from Boston. It is a very interesting place, the island is of volcanic formation and the houses are built of volcanic stones and then plastered over the outside and washed with a mixture either white, pink or buff in color. The people are Portugese and most of them are Roman Catholic. There is a small protestant mission there, we visited it and held two services in their chapel. I will tell you more about it when I get home.

Today we expected to spend on the island of Maderia. Our ship anchored in the Bay of Funchal, opposite the chief city of the island but we could not land as there were cases of small-pox on the island, had we gone ashore we would be quarantined at other ports for 10 days, so we sailed away and hope to make our next stop at Gibraltar.

I hope that this letter reaches you in time for the service on Sunday, May 19.

I shall think of you all, be with you in spirit and together we shall worship the same Lord and Savior, although we are more than 4000 miles away from each other.

My prayer is that the Heavenly Father may watch over us each one and keep us safe in his love that we may see one worse in together again in our dear church in Bellefonte.

Your Friend and Pastor,
AMBROSE M. SCHMIDT.

Part of a letter to Rev. A. M. Schmidt's family.

Grand Hotel Michel, Rome,
Sunday May 19, 07.

It is now half past two o'clock, our lunch is over and we have no service until 4 p. m. With you it is about nine o'clock. When we will be worshiping here at 4 o'clock you will be holding your 11 o'clock service and I shall be with you in spirit and praying for and with you. At 8 o'clock we use the responsive service that you use today.

Rome is a wonderful city, we reached here Tuesday night about 11 o'clock very tired. Since then it has been like a continuous dream. On the "go" every day and not half of the important things more than looked at. The first day several of us visited St. Peter's, I have been there three times, walked back and forth; studied its magnificent proportions, climbed its dome, looked into its great depths inside and gained the view from the top of the dome of the city and surrounding country. The ruins of the Forum, Coloseum &c. are far more extensive than I ever imagined them to be. One minute you are looking on the ruins of bygone centuries, the next you are walking in the midst of New Rome, with all of its modern architecture and up to date improvements. We are delightfully placed in the Hotel Michel. It is a regular palace of stone and beauty. I have a room with Rev. Mr. White, our outlook is fine and everything elegant. Our breakfasts do not vary, coffee or chocolate, eggs and rolls with honey. Lunch is served at 1 o'clock and is a regular course dinner. Dinner at 6:30 and generally consists of seven courses. The Convention opened last evening with a rousing and enthusiastic meeting. This morning Dr. Stahr, Dr. D. B. Schneder of Sendai, Japan; and Dr. Albert (Lutheran) of Philadelphia; and I, attended services at the American Episcopal church where Dr. Robert Nevin was Rector (The late Dr. Nevin was well known in Bellefonte) I enjoyed the services; and the chimes on the steeple played five or six hymns, all familiar tunes, just before the service began. Mrs. Dr. Blackwood of Lancaster, came in and sat down beside me. She is spending sometime in Rome.

The Sistine Chapels is very rich in pictures and frescoes by Michael Angelo. I visited it twice, also the picture galleries of the Vatican where Riphael's "Trans. figuration" is to be seen and many other rare paintings.

Tomorrow afternoon a small party of us planned to drive out over the Appian Way and follow the footsteps of St. Paul as they can be traced in the places and events recorded in his life. Very likely Dr. Stahr and I will leave here Thursday afternoon for Florence instead of waiting until Friday morning when the great crowd will rush in the same direction. We planned to remain in Florence until Monday forenoon when we go to Venice; there remain until Wednesday forenoon and go to Milan. On Thursday we will most likely go up into Switzerland, and follow practically the itinary I gave you before leaving home.

Notice of Advance of $50

IN PRICE OF

International Lumber and Development Co. Stock

ON OR BEFORE June 30, 1907, the price of this stock will be advanced to $350 per share. Only a limited number of shares remain to be sold at par—$300. At the present rate of sale; these may be disposed of at any time before June 30th, in which case the advance will go into effect immediately.

The Large Amount of Development Work Already Accomplished Fully Warrants This Increase

The most successful progress has been made under the plantation's expert management, who have had years of experience in tropical development work. The dividends paid since the organization of the company have been realized from the sale of lumber, the profits of the company's stores and the sale of cattle, hides, corn, etc. 8 per cent annual dividends guaranteed. 22 per cent dividends annually estimated on fulldevelopment of the property.

"A great and wonderful property with resources almost unlimited. All previous reports as to its greatness fully confirmed. Three million five hundred thousand henequen plants found in healthy condition. Four thousand acres will shortly be planted to corn. I have seen vast forests of giant mahogany and cedar with hundreds of wild rubber trees. Seven hundred and fifty acres are planted to bananas and six hundred to rubber all doing well. The property is in fine condition and my report will be favorable. All well."

WHAT THE COMPANY OWNS

1 288,000 acres of fertile tropical land in Campeche, Mexico.
2 Large forests of mahogany, cedar, logwood and other valuable cabinet and dye woods covering ½ of this estate.
3 $100,000 worth of lumber and logs in company's yards at Mobile & Chicago.
4 60,000 fullgrown wild rubber trees, most of them never tapped.
5 250,000 chicle or zapoic trees (these yield chicle—the basis of chewing gum.)
6 Over 2,000 head of cattle.
7 More than 3,500,000 henequen plants growing.
8 200,000 banana plants growing.
9 7,000 orange trees growing.
10 2 steamships
11 5 settlements.

13 5 company's stores.
14 Saw mill on plantation.
15 Sawmill in Mobile, Ala.
16 30miles R. R. roling stock
17 Extensive telephone line

All of this property is clear of debt and held by a Philadelphia trust company for the protection of stockholders. There are over 5000 stockholders, with one to 310 shares each. There are but 20,000 shares of stock, hence each share represents fourteen and two-fifths acres of land, and is first and only claim upon it, thus making a share equivalent to a first mortage bond.

All stockholders have equal voting power, regardless of the number of shares held. Small payments—$5 per month per share. In case of death, all payment returned, if desired; not deducting dividends received.

MR. EDITOR,

Dearr Sir:

For the best and most obvious reasons will you give a little space in The Daily News for five of the best resolutions on Sabbath observance unamously adopted by the Presbyterian General Assembly at its recent convening in the city of Columbus O.

1 Resolved, That the authority of the Christian Sabbath is found in the law of God and confirmed by the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 Resolved, That the General Assembly expresses its strong conviction that the sacred character of the Sabbath must be carefully and strenuously maintained; and to this end enjoins all ministers, officers and members of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America to exercise special care and faithfulness, and discourages holding funerals on that day.

3 Resolved, That the General Assembly reiterates its strong and emphatic disaproval of all secular uses of the day, all games and sports, all traveling for pleasure and all excursions and urges upon all employers of labor and captains of industry to recognize the need of the laboring man for his weekly rest day, and thereby insure his greater efficiency and happiness and the greater prosperity of both capital and labor.

4 Resolved, That the General Assembly urges on all families not to buy anything on the Sabbath, to plan for their servants on the Sabbath and help them to fulfill their religions duties and to pay laborers so that they may have Saturday afternoon to make provision for the Sabbath.

5 Resolved, that the General Assembly hereby reiterates its emphatic condemption of the Sunday newspaper, and urges the members of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America to refuse to subscribe for or read or advertise in it.

As chairman of the Local Sabbath Observance Committe, in my endeavor for a more sacred regard for God's Holy Law concerning His Holy Day in our city and vicinity, I merely repeat that I rather fail than succeed in the wrong. The members of our Bellefonte Ministerium and a few others outside of it may be in a very small minority favoring a strict observance of the Lord's Day, but if we have any faith or any knowledge, we fully believe and unmistakably know that we are on the Lord's side and God with us in the position we take.

There is neither time nor space just now to express any warning for the heeding of those who are on the other than the Lord's side.

—Last week our good friend Hon. P. Gray Meek and his personal friend Howard Hallsworth took a little fishing trip out to Benners Run. They had two good horses from the Palace Livery and when night came on they blanketed and fed the horses and retired for the night. It was raining to best the band, and during the night Mr. Meek got up and found one of his horses had gotten loose and wandered away. The result was after searching the mountains they walked 10 miles to Unionville through the mud and water. The horse was found the next day just about 100 yards from where they had been camping. This was an experience Mr. Meek will not soon forget, not withstanding the many good times he has had at the old Benner Run Camping grounds.

J. M. Williams is making considerable improvements around his home.

Wedding bells will be ringing here this week, many will be surprised.

Mr. H. C. Woodring our accomodating landlord has added a handsome carriage and buggie to his livery and is having the hotel office remodeled.

The telephones which this community and the traveling public have long been in need of are now in operation and are of good service.

Mrs. H. C. Thompson is visiting friends at Birmingham this week.

Mrs. Jones and her son are visiting her motherinlaw.

Mr. A. G. Williams returned home from Carlisle where he has been attending school preparing to enter the ministry.

Milesburg.

Thomas Johnson, justice of the peace, married Alexander Watson of Unionville and Miss Annie Puntner of Philipsburg.

Mrs. Ed. T. Johnson and Miss May Johnston left for McKeesport where they will make their home.

James Campbell and family of Tyrone, spent Decoration Day in the burg.

Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1 will hold their festival on June 22. You are cordially invited.

Miss Ada Baird of Tyrone and William Baird of Juniata were home for a short season.

Mrs. Mary McCollum of State College was in the burg on Decoration Day.

C. C. Eckert of Curvensville visited here last week.

Mrs. George Austin of Tyrone took in the large display in the burg on Decoration Day.

Clark Confer of Snow Shoe visited in our town.

Decoration Day will be long remembered, largest parade ever witnessed in the burg, the day being a beautiful one, bringing in a large number of strangers to the burg. We are safe in saying that 600 were in the parade To give details of the day would take up too much space. King Anthems Club of small boys with their uniforms and wooden guns carried off the honors of the day. They are well drilled for being so young.

Mrs. McClellen Foulton with three children of Tyrone spent Sunday with his mother.

June 9th, will be childrens day in the M. E. church Sunday evening.

Moshannon.

The Primary Elections held here on Saturday under the new order of things, passed off very quietly and satisfactorly to all parties concerned.

The Decoration Services held in the Askey cemetery on Memorial Day, were unusually interesting. The day was certainly fine, with a bright warm sun and not a drop of rain. While the Snow Shoe band rendered some choice selections in a creditable manner,

Rev. Ake, of the Karthaus charge, delivered a very forceful and interesting sermon in the M. E. Church on Sunday evening, having exchanged pulpits with Rev. Ilgenfritz.

Prof. Albert Lucas transacted business in Altoona this week.

Mrs. Geo. E. French arrived here recently and will occupy her summer home a few months.

J. T. Lucas visited his son at Howard over Sunday.

J. A. Shangraw and family of Newberry, are visiting friends in our town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Confer of Clearfield, spent a few days here recently.

Rev. Williams, pastor of the Presbyterian church at this place, has been quite ill of late.

W. D. O'Brian of Snow Shoe, was seen on our streets with his new "auto-mo-thing" having lately made a purchase.

A number of our people took in the ball game at Snow Shoe Thursday.

The Mother is a Deserter.

When a mother deserts her children we always think she is a most cruel person, and certainly has little love in her heart for her off springs. But today a story reached us and to satisfy our curiosity we went to the home and found the tale to be only too true.

An old mother had at the Hollobaugh home at Coleville sat on 13 eggs for three weeks and at the end of that time she hatched out 12 of the prettiest little peeps you would want to see, some act that one of the little ones committed, kind of disgusted the old lady hen and she immediately deserted the entire family. Mr. Rooster seeing the sad predicament the little chicks were in, adopted the whole family, and now he gets them feed, such as worms, bread and grain and takes the best of care of them, at nights instead of flying to a high roost in some tree or in the barn, he gathered the little peeps together and shelters them with his warm feathers, and protects them from all harm. This rooster deserves a medal, while the old hen would make good noodle soup.

Systemic Catarrh of Summer

Affects Many Organs of the Body.

"There is no better remedy in the world than Pe-ru-na for systemic catarrh."

S. B. Hartman, M. D.

A War Veteran's Experience.

General A. F. Hawley, 1336 25th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna and find it very beneficial for kidney trouble, and especially good for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Spring and Summer Catarrh.

There is a form of catarrh especially prevalent in spring and summer, called by Dr. Hartman systemic catarrh.

This form of catarrh especially deranges the stomach, bowels and other organs of the abdomen. The whole mucous tract lining the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys is in an inflamed condition, and these organs fail to perform their proper function.

Systemic catarrh may be or may not be accompanied by catarrh in other parts of the body. In some cases there is a hacking cough. It may be also associated with catarrh in the head.

But, in typical cases of systemic catarrh all the organs of the abdomen are in a weakened and sluggish condition.

Dyspepsia and Biliousness.

Sometimes it is called dyspepsia, at other times biliousness, or the patient may be suspected of having kidney disease or appendicitis.

Systemic catarrh presents symptoms which resemble closely a great many different diseases.

Peruna has for a long time been regarded as the remedy par excellence for conditions of this kind.

The accompanying testimonials are sufficient to indicate the promptness with which Peruna relieves these symptoms and the satisfaction which people express concerning the use of Peruna.

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mr. W. R. Callahan, proprietor of Big Hill Farm, and a prominent fruit grower and stock raiser, Glenvar, Va., writes:

"I write to express my kindness toward you and your good medicine, Peruna.

"I had a very bad spell of sickness and could not eat anything at all.

"My head, stomach, in fact, my whole body ached, and it looked as though nothing would do me any good.

"I had almost given up. I decided to try a bottle of your Peruna and before I had taken half the bottle my appetite came to me and my head became all right."

Old Farmer Jones Says.

He thought he would come to town this morning as it did not look for snow, and he had some smear case to distribute around among his friends. His wife said they had more than they knew what to do with, so he just brought it along, and what he could not give away he left at Harrison Walker's for his little chicks. Yes, my wife said, Jones you just go to town and buy a lot and build a house, you know we ought to live in town, so we could go to church, as they need better singing in the choir. Well said I, don't you think that I am going to buy a lot up on Linn street as there is some lots there that have board walks that every time it rains the mud is six inches deep and it just lays there, until the predestians carry it away on their shoes into their houses. Yes some day the people will die that own vacant lots that have fixed the price at five hundrd dollars (and turn them into the assessor as one hundred and fifty) yes some day when they call for Saint Peter he will just stick his head out of the upstair window and say, you better go back to Bellefonte and clean the mud off your side walks. The snow melted off, but the mud won't melt. Get back and brighten your tinware up, and call again, and don't be too long about it or you may go where they don't use snow shovels or burn ashes.

Well now I nearly got off my subject I had intended to talk a little on woman's rights, but I do not have the heart to do it, and I really think they have more rights now than men, of course men have rights too, they have a right to do the milking, feed the calves and pigs, and the work around the barn, but when a man wants to run the barn and then go to the house and run that to suit himself, then its just too much for him to look after; why one of my neighbors has his wife so skeered of him that she walks over a half mile to the back field every day to ask him if she shall cook shoulder or flitch for dinner. Now I really think if a woman wants to cook flitch she ought to be allowed to do so. I don't believe in scoulding a woman because she uses eggs when they are ten cents a dozen. Why my neighbor would only allow his wife to cook a half an egg at a time. He made her boil them first so as to cut them in the middle. He made her walk five miles to town and carry a basket of eggs while he drove in a spring wagon, for fear she would break an egg or two. Now if this is women's rights, tell me. Now this here farming aint so bad, we can hitch up our horses and go, providing some one don't come before we get started, and if they do come we say lets go down to Bill Tibben's for dinners and we always get it too.

Now some folks don't appreciate a carriage drive, unless they have to pay three dollars for hire and get it charged, The farmer has to face difficulties too. Sometimes he gets low prices for hay but then he has double the amount of hay A merchant said to me this very morning that he was tired paying $22 a ton for hay, he wished it would rain to make more hay. I guess some people in town are tired paying forty cents a pound for butter too. The farmer must have a turn once in a while. If you go to the store to buy anything they will tell you that every thing is going up and hard to get. Last that's made, factory on strike and the last chance to get the article. Well some men want to run Providence, the weather and every thing else. I see them standing on the diamond, bloated up like my calves after they had drank about a quart of butter milk, talking about the good weather the people have in town, and it is so nice to use for an artificial spring house, the water committee thought the pipes were leaking for a long time. We have heard of men painting the town red but Robt. Fry says he is the only man who can paint it green.

James Bechdel Dead.

On Thursday May 30th about the noon hour the death angel entered the Bechdel home on Walnut street at Howard and took thence the spirit of the father, Mr. James Bechdel. Mr. Bechdel had been a sufferer for some time past with that dreaded disease consumption, and bore it patiently. He was a man who had many friends in that community, having been a resident there most of his life.

He was aged about 60 years and is survived by his wife and the following children: Edward of Pittsburg; Albert, Jennie, Mrs. Elsie Keagle, Clair and Earl.

The funeral took place on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in the Schenk cemetery.

Charter Notice.

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Court of Common Pleas of Centre County on July 1st, 1907, at ten o'clock a. m., under the Act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled "An Act to provide for the Incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved April 29th, 1874, and the supplements thereto, for the charter of an intended corporation to be called the "Phi Tau Fraternity of the Pennsylvania State College," the character and object whereof is to provide a home for students and others connected with said Fraternity and for the moral, intellectual and social benefit and advancement of its members, and for such purpose to hold and own real estate, and for these purposes to have, possess and enjoy all the rights, benefits and privileges of the said Act of Assemply and its supplements.

The proposed charter is now on file in the Prothonotary's office.

CONSIGNED TO THE TOMB.

The Remains of the Late Ensign Alfred Terry Brisbin Laid to Rest.

The body of the late Ensign Alfred Terry Brisbin arrived in Bellefonte Thursday morning from New York.

They were conveyed from Cuba to New York on the ship Moro Castle. Immediately upon their arrival there Admiral Tausig, commandant at the Brooklyn navy yard, notified Col. J. L. Spangler in this place and stated when the body would be forwarded to Bellefonte. It came here in charge of Ensign Hillard, of the Brooklyn navy yard who was under orders to simply deliver the body in Bellefonte and take a receipt for it and return at once. Having performed that duty he continued on the same train to Lock Haven on his way east. Ensign Hillard, by the way, did not even know Ensign Brisbin.

At eleven o'clock Friday morning the funeral services we held, conducted by Dr. J. Allison Platts pastor of the Presbyterian Church assisted by Rev. William Laurie, D. D. The services were most impressive and sad. A quartette composed of Mrs. Platts, Miss Shaeffer, Mr. Harris, and Mr. Brown sang very beautifully "Saved by Grace" and "Sometime We'll Understand." Miss Harper accompanied the quartette on the piano. The home was filled with kind friends who had gathered to pay a last tribute of love and esteem to the departed Ensign. The floral tributes were lovely. The body rested in a metalic lined casket which was draped with the Stars and Stripes.

The casket bearers were the following gentleman, Colonel Hugh S. Taylor, Henry C. Quigley Esq., Senator William C. Heinle, C. Frank Montgomery, Harry Fenlon, Wilson Gephart, George R. Meek, and Harry Keller Esq. Interment was made in the Spangler family plot in the Union cemetery.

Fell Into the Creek.

Saturday was a horrible day to go swiming, but some young men who are of the Baptist belief don't seem to care how cold and wet the water is, just so they can have a swim. On Saturday afternoon when the Lewisburg train shifted across the tressle above the station, Harry Hiem the brakeman was standing near the switch, and when the cars were shoved back into the station, the young man had stepped to the other side of the switch where the walk was narrower, and the result was the end of the coach bumped him off the tressle in the briney deep. Of course he was soaked from head to foot, but he made the best of it by swiming to the shore. He changed his uniform of gray to one of blue, and dried out behind the steam pipes. It is certainly a wonder the young man wasn't hurt, as he had quite a drop off the bridge. It was very amusing to the bystanders, and when he leaped into the water, even the little fishes waggled their tails.

Change Conductors.

Conductor J. A. Warner who has been filling Mr. Reamers place on the L. & T. for two months past has been put back on his old run again on the main line. Mr. Warner has made many friends since coming to Bellefonte and in fact all along the Lewisburg line, who will feel sorry to know he has been transferred. He is a perfect gentleman in every way and has filled this position in an acceptable and efficient manner. His place will be taken by conductor Charles P. Tredwell of Harrisburg.

Bids For Building State Road Awarded.

On Saturday the awards were made for the building of the new state road between Bellefonte and Milesburg. There were but two bidders, J. K. Palmer & Co., of Clearfield, and R. B. Taylor & Co., of Bellefonte. There were two bids, one for that section of the road which runs through Spring township and one for that in Boggs township. For the former Palmer & Co. bid $7,503,55 and Taylor & Co. two bids—$6,908.22 and $6,644.26. For this portion Taylor & Co. was awarded the contract. For the Boggs township end Palmer & Co. bid $3, 521. 40 and Taylor & Co. $4. 099.65 and $3, 974.85. Palmer and Co. refused to take the contract for the building of only a part of the road so the whole of it was awarded to Taylor & Co. they accepting the bid of Palmer & Co. for the Boggs township end as the price for which they will do the work. The road is to be sixteen feet wide and must be completed within sixty days, which will necessitate the employment of a large force of men.

Backing Up.

The man who went out to milk and sat on a boulder in the middle of the pasture field and waited for the cow to back up, was a brother to the man who kept a store and wouldn't advertise, because he reasoned that the purchasing public would back up to his place of business when it wanted something.

My Hair Ran Away

Don't have a falling out with your hair. It might leave you! Then what? That would mean thin, scraggly, uneven, rough hair. Keep your hair at home! Fasten it tightly to your scalp! You can easily do it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is something more than a simple hair dressing. It is a hair medicine, a hair tonic, a hair food.

The Class of 1906 Hold Reunion.

On the evening of Thursday, May 30, the class of 1906, met at the Bellefonte High School and celebrated their first Annual Class Reunion. A majority of the class were in attendance and the recital of the late years experiences of the young graduates, as they met the busy practical world blended appropriatly with reminisences of the four previous years spent so happily together. Within those familiar walls it was only fitting that the old songs they had sung so often there, should be resung, and so with the music of the piano arose voices that are no longer mere promises of an ambitious future, but of those whose first year has been completed in the great school of Responsibility, whose teacher is Experience.

Together with the honored presence of two of their former instructors, Miss Ella Levy and Mr. John D. Meyer, the following persons answered the former roll of the class.

Mildred H. Ogden.
Winifred M. Gates.
Essie Viehdorfer.
Sara McClure.
Pearl Knisely.
Maud A. Johnston.
Mary L. Grimm.
Sabra D. Faxon.
Milan P. Walker.
B. Frank Steele.
William P. Shope.
Paul L. Wetzel.
Roy S. Fleck.

Very much do they regret the absence of those members whom circumstances prevented meeting with the classmates at their old Alma Mater.

Anna Kechline.
Anne Garman.
Elizabeth Yohey.
Rebecca Jacobs.
Helen Valentine.
Laura Thomas.
Charles Barnes.
Thomas Haugh.
John Smith.
Roy Farber.

Refreshments were served in the library, just before adjournment, and in consequence of the class spirit exhibited there, and throughout the entire evening, as they brought back the enchanted old days, their kindly appreciated friends will be glad to know that these zealous young people are learning Lifes' thorough lessons with light hearts—are not growing old.

"Oh! listen dear friend, we will never be old.
Though sometimes the Gray may replace the old Gold.
And rest on our heads, as the swift years go by.
To mellow with happiness ages gentle sigh.
Or maybe White roses for Red ones may come.
Old time may deceive us about being young.—
But while our hearts such memories hold,
The class of '06 will never be old."

Gay Crowd From Lock Haven.

On Saturday the Normal base ball team of Lock Haven had planned to play the Bellefonte Academy but on account of the rain the game was called off. Nevertheless the young men of the team and their lady friends certainly had a royal time. In the afternoon Miss Crissman opened up her dance hall in the Bush Arcade and the young folks tripped the light two step and waltzes all afternoon, and part of the evening at the station, the happy young crowd enjoyed themselves by giving the Normall yells, and singing. One real pretty and charming black haired girl had a beautiful voice and she seemed to be the ring leader of the bunch. All the young ladies had pretty voices and the singing was highly appreciated by the large audience they had attracted. The young ladies were chaperoned by Miss Reynolds of the Normal school, who took very good care that they should conduct themselves properly. But it was hardly necessary to have a chaperone as they all conducted themselves as perfect ladies.

CYPRESS KNEES.

How They Are Formed—Trees' Curious Blunt Roots.

The cypress knee is a familiar object in all the lowland forests of the south, but there are thousands of northern people who have never seen them, and there are many southern people, too, who have not seen them till they stumbled over them some dark night. The knee is of solid wood, has no limbs or leaves, is anywhere from six inches to six feet in height, and its rounded top and flattened sides give it very much the shape of a human leg bent at the knee till thigh and calf are brought together; hence the appropriate name of "knee."

For a number of years I was curious as to what part the knees played in the life of a cypress tree, writes a correspondent of Forest and Stream, for they are part of its root system and do not grow independently. They were not sprouts, trying to grow into trees, for they never developed branches, and the final conclusion was that their only use was for people to stumble over. How and why such useless appendages to the tree were formed was a mystery until one day when drifting down a deep channel which had been washed through a cypress swamp the secret was exposed.

The earth had been washed away from the roots of some of the trees, and roots in all stages of growth were in sight. None of these roots was less than two and one-half inches thick and of uniform size clear to their tips or rather clear to their blunt ends, for there was no tip.

Nature intended these roots to grow in soft mud, and they were all right for that purpose, but when the blunt end of a root encountered something too hard to push through it bent or buckled in the line of least resistance, and this was generally toward the top of the ground, and the continuing growth of the root pushing the bend further upward made the bend closer, until finally the two arms of the bend were close together and they grew together, with one sheet of bark inclosing both.

STUDY YOUR HORSE.

If the Animal Has Mental Troubles, Try to Remedy Them.

To begin with, does your horse suffer from nostalgia or homesickness? Most horses do, and many really pine away and die from no other cause. We can at least, by making the poor creature thoroughly comfortable, do all in our power to "give his pain surcease" and to make him happy and contented, for than homesickness of the acute and chronic form men knows few more wearing ailments. Is your horse's disposition sociable or misanthropic? You don't know? Well, why not find out? Does it irritate him to have his yokemate or neighbors eating noisily and visibly while he does? Is privacy evidently his preference? Very well, then, by boards or zinc or tin or canvas shut off both sides of his stall at the head so that he may eat in peace and live the isolated life which he prefers.

If he lays back his ears or snaps at his neighbors or fidgets and kicks at the partitions, etc., he does not fancy company—at least at mealtimes—and he will be better, do better and (here the pocket comes in) keep more cheaply if you cater to his fancy. If, on the contrary, a "shy feeder," let him see others eat; even let him by a simple arrangement feed from the same manger as one of his neighbors, which is to be tied up short until Master Dainty has eaten all he will, when, upon allowing the neighbor to partake, the fastidious one will redouble his efforts to eat just to spite the late comer at the feast. The writer has used this plan with many poor feeders from race horses down and always with the best results.—F. M. Ware in Outing Magazine.

He Hadn't Changed a Bit.

The Smiths had invited the minister to dinner. As the last course was reached little Willie, who had been closely watching the guest almost continually through the meal, looked over at him once more and said:

"You haven't changed a bit since you started eating, have you, Mr. Curtis?"

"Why, no," laughed the minister. "Why do you ask that question?"

"Because," blurted Willie, confused by the pairs of eyes focused on him, "because I heard pa tell ma you'd make a big hog of yourself as soon as you got your eye on the corned beef and cabbage."—Bohemian Magazine.

He Had Had Some Help.

The man who applied at headquarters for a "little help" from the charitable association set forth his case with so much tact and moderation that the secretary was beginning to be favorably impressed.

"I can't ask them to do too much," the applicant said modestly. "You see," he continued, in an outburst of delicacy and ingenuousness, "they paid for my wedding last month, and 'twas a real swell one."—Youth's Companion.

Pain of a Wooden Leg.

"Barney's wooden leg has been paining 'im of late," said Scholes to his wife.

"How can that be?" asked Mrs. Scholes irritably.

"Mrs. Barney has been thrashing 'im with it," was the explanation.

HE HAD HIS DOSE.

An Incident of the Terrible Battle of Montmirail.

In February, 1814, the French army made a heroic stand against the allied forces of Europe, and in one week retrieved for a short but glorious period its lost prestige. Though composed largely of half raw recruits, it escaped from the very center of 250,000 foes, attacked an army of 70,000 men, won 4 battles and captured 68 cannon, 5 generals and 28,000 prisoners!

After the terrible fight at Montmirail Major Bancel, staff surgeon to the guard, was attending the wounded as well as he could, close behind the columns still engaged. Looking up from one unfortunate man whose wounds he was dressing, he perceived within a short distance an old mounted chasseur of the guard, who was tranquilly smoking his pipe and watching the surgeon.

Bancel did not at first pay any attention to him. By and by he noticed the man again, still in the same posture, tranquilly smoking his pipe.

"What are you doing there?" cried the surgeon.

"Smoking," answered the man. "Does the major forbid me to smoke?"

"What!" returned the officer. "Aren't you ashamed to be loafing around here while your comrades are covering themselves with glory?"

The chasseur blew out a cloud of smoke and, driving his right spur into his steed, made him execute a half turn. Then he said, taking his pipe out of his mouth:

"Look, major. Don't you think I have got my dose as it is? Can I do anything more?"

The major looked. The chasseur's leg was shot off half way between the knee and the ankle, so that his left foot was hanging and dangling against his horse. The veteran's question required no answer. But it may be surmised what care and attention the surgeon lavished on the imperturbable chasseur.

LINCOLN'S GROCERY.

Result of One Partner's Hunger and the Other Partner's Thirst.

A giant in stature, he was as awkward as he was strong. His rustic appearance was enhanced by an ill fitting suit of homespun. Thus at the head of the ox team he made his debut in the outer world, without means, without education, without influence. This may seem a sorry beginning, but let it be remembered that if on that day he had graduated from Harvard in a fashionable coat the gates of history would probably have been closed against him.

Mr. Lincoln's first business venture resulted in downright failure. He formed a partnership with one Berry, under the firm name of Berry & Lincoln, to carry on a grocery, for the purchase price of which the firm note was given. Berry was a jolly, irresponsible soul, who was born thirsty and who gave his undivided attention to that part of the stock known as "wet groceries." Mr. Lincoln, on the other hand, having a keen appetite, devoted himself to the crackers and cheese, smoked herrings and other edibles at the dry end of the shop. This happy adjustment rivaled the familiar case of Jack Sprat and his congenial spouse, but the meager stock could not long withstand the inroads of hunger at the one end and thirst at the other, and a crisis came which required the sale of the remnant of stock. The purchaser defaulted, and Mr. Lincoln was left to pay all the liabilities—a task which plagued him for several years. Thereby he had impressed upon him a legal proposition that a partner is liable in solido.

It is related that Mr. Lincoln bought a barrel of a customer, in the bottom of which, among other rubbish, was found a copy of "Blackstone's Commentaries." This was a great find for the law student, but as the book thereafter engrossed his attention the grocery business collapsed. Thus ended the first lesson.—J. V. Quarles in Putnam's.

A "Jumbie Bird."

In the West Indies is found a bird called the sunset bird, because half an hour before sunset and half an hour before sunrise it utters its peculiar cry of "Soleil coucher!" The natives call it a "jumbie bird" (a bird possessed of the devil) and say that to kill it would bring death to its slayer. Another bird found in the same region is the "Soufriere bird," which makes its home near the volcano of Soufriere, and among the natives there is a strong belief that the first individual to see this bird will die, while the most horrible torture by evil spirits awaits the man who kills it.—Minneapolis Journal.

Call Early For Good Ones.

At the end of a big ball one of the guests went into the cloakroom at 3 in the morning to put on his things, and the attendant came forward with a coat.

"That isn't my coat," said the guest. "Mine is a perfectly new one."

"A new one? Oh, I haven't any new coats left after half-past 12."—Sourire.

RAISING CHURCH FUNDS.

The Kaffirs Mix In a Lot of Fun With Their Generosity.

The gentle Kaffir when he does become Christianized has his own ideas of the best method of raising funds for the support of the "cause." From the subjoined description of a native meeting sent home by a missionary it would appear that native generosity, although of a rough and tumble character, is distinctly productive of ways and means:

"Recently I attended a native tea meeting, at which more than £12 was raised by this very poor congregation. Their way of doing it was characteristic and amusing. They paid 2 shillings to sit down to tea. Then some one would pay 3 shillings for such and such a man to be required to get up again and leave the table. The man thus assailed would pay 3s. 6d. for leave to sit down again. There was a special table at which six could sit, paying an extra shilling each for the privilege. They had just got seated when a man paid 7 shillings to clear them out, and they paid another 8 shillings to sit on, and so it went on. They arrange all this themselves, and this is their way of giving to the cause. One man had a tin of sirup. He said he would pay 2 shillings to pour it over another man's head who had got himself up well in a large collar, etc.; this man paid 3 shillings to be let off, the first man 4 shillings again to do it, the other 5 shillings to escape, the first 6 shillings to do it—and did it, and, oh, the laughter and the mess!"

THE SACRED CODFISH.

Famous Emblem That Adorns the Massachusetts Statehouse.

A codfish carved in wood hangs on the white mahogany wall of the Massachusetts hall of representatives in the statehouse in Boston. Between two classic pillars it occupies a place of honor, directly opposite the desk of the presiding officer. This wooden fish is the renowned original sacred codfish of the Old Colony, and it has assisted at the deliberations of the lawmakers of Massachusetts for more than a century and a half, gathering sanctity year by year. It is a relic of the old building which preceded the present statehouse, and great is the dignity of this souvenir of colonial art and industry.

The following account of its origin is given in a Boston paper:

"Captain John Welch of Boston was the creator and carver of the celebrated fish. He was a wood carver of renown for his time and in 1747 established his business in Dock square. He belonged to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and afterward became its captain. He was called upon to contribute to the decoration of the colonial assembly hall, and as at that period codfish was the colony's main article of export Captain Welch conceived the idea of immortalizing the king fish of the Massachusetts waters. When completed the carving was finished off and colored so as to be a fac simile of life and was hung on the wall of the assembly hall."

A Fool's Identity.

Some of the best known people pass unrecognized by those to whom they should be known. Harold Frederick sat one night at dinner next a man whose very silence and taciturnity caused him the more closely covertly to survey him. Not a word was exchanged between the two. "Who was that hopeless idiot that I sat next to at dinner?" asked Frederick at the close of the meal. "That hopeless idiot was Cecil Rhodes," he was answered. It was the fact. The Colossus had been in one of the moods in which he would not talk, and Frederick, though he had seen his portrait a hundred times, had not recognized him.—St. James' Gazette.

Sagacity of the Ancients.

Many quotations came from the works of Thales, the Greek philosopher and one of the seven wise men. It was he who said, "Know thyself." "Few words are a sign of prudent judgment," "Search after wisdom and choose what is most worthy," "There is nothing more beautiful than the world," "Time is the wisest thing, for it invents and discovers all things." He also said that it was the hardest thing in the world to know oneself and the easiest to admonish another. In his youth Thales was urged to marry, but he said, "It is too soon," and later in life upon being urged again he said, "It is too late."

Where the Relief Would Be.

Dr. Story, the late principal of Glasgow university, taking a holiday in the country once, was met by the minister of the district, who remarked: "Hello, principal! You here? Why, you must come and relieve me for a day." The principal replied, "I don't promise to relieve you, but I might relieve your congregation."

Coming and Going.

"What kick have you against married life?"

"Well, if I don't keep my wife dressed in the height of fashion I have trouble with her, and if I do keep her dressed in the height of fashion I have trouble with her dressmaker."—Houston Post.

BAPTIZING SHIPS.

The Modern Method a Survival of a Barbaric Custom.

If fair young women sponsors who take a great deal of pride in breaking a bottle of champagne over the prow of a ship as she slides into the water for her first float knew something about the origin and significance of the launching custom, the chances are they would not be so eager to see the bottle crash and the foaming liquid wet the sides of the vessel.

It is a survival of a barbaric custom when sacrifices were made to the gods and some living victim or offering was held up and its throat cut so that the blood flowed over the prow of the ship being launched. The vessel was baptized in warm blood. Now sparkling wine or pure water is used, and the change has many advantages, though the symbolism remains.

There is another curious custom aboard ship that is interesting in the way it has been handed down to us. When a dignitary visits a foreign country, the moment that his ship enters port a formal salute is fired as a signal of welcome. This custom was observed years ago, when it was considered the correct thing for a port to fire its guns to show the visiting stranger that the citizens and authorities placed such confidence in his friendliness that it was not considered necessary to keep the guns loaded, so all the shot was discharged.—New York Herald.

THE AIR BRAKE.

It Was Ushered Into Actual Use In Most Dramatic Fashion.

The air brake was ushered into actual use in most dramatic fashion. The trial trip occurred in April, 1869. The train selected was the Steubenville accommodation, running between Pittsburg and Steubenville, O.

When the train was going at full speed, suddenly as he came around a sharp curve the engineer saw a stalled wagon in the middle of the track dead ahead. With only hand brakes nothing could have prevented a terrible smashup. The formal time for the trial of the air brake had not come, but the brake was there, and in desperation, not believing for a moment that the thing could possibly avail, the engineer threw on the air. But it did avail.

The observers in the rear were almost catapulted out of their seats by the shock of the sudden stop. But when they saw the engine fairly poking its nose into the wagon bed, so narrow had been the margin between safety and disaster, they forgot all about their shock and stood in awed silence. The air brake had come into its own.—Everybody's Magazine.

Keyhold Tenure In London.

The curious custom of keyhold tenure still prevails at Crowland, the famous abbey town in the Lincolnshire fens, where there are a number of cottages which are neither copyhold, freehold nor leasehold. They were originally built on waste land, and in each case the possessor of the key holds an indisputed tenancy. Although some of the occupiers have replaced the mud and thatched dwellings of antiquity with brick and slated buildings, they have no power to sell or will them away, for they have no deeds. On a tenant dying the first person to cross the threshold takes his place if he so desires. Many devices have been resorted to to obtain the keys. The properties carry a county vote, but the poor law guardians always refuse to grant relief to the tenants.—London Globe.

A Vegetable Freak.

California has one tree which is the personification of mystery. Found nowhere else in the world, it had a mysterious origin and thrives in a region of mystery. The Mojava yucca is a vegetable freak which has developed into a species. It has the characteristics of several plants, to which no relationship can be traced. It is an endogen, yet its bark shows concentric rings such as characterize the exogenous stems. It lives and thrives in great numbers in a region nearly devoid of vegetation.—P. E. Magazine.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

HIDDEN DANGER.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Bellefonte Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of ediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cures sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Bellefonte proof.

Mrs. Nancy Davis, of 246, East Logan Street, says: "I suffered a bad fall some years ago when living n Rochester. I thought at first that I had broken my back. I was unable to get up without assistance and from that time I suffered for years with a weak back and excruciating pains through the loins and through the small of my back. Sometimes I was completely prostrated and helpless. Doctors and medicines failed to help me and the pain continued until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. I took only a few doses before I began to feel better and when I had continued using them for a while I was thoroughly cured. My back regained its strength and the pain left me. I have had no return of the trouble since."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

A CIRCUS MAN KILLED

At Huntingdon On Saturday by Being Run Over by Train.

GEO. ARTHUR ROWLAND

One of the Star Performers of the Hagenback and Wallace Show Instantly Killed.

SURVIVED BY HIS WIFE AND FAMILY

Huntingdon, Pa., June 2.—George Arthur Rowland, the highest priced and one of the star performers of the Hagenbeck & Wallace shows which exhibited here Saturday, was run down and instantly killed at 10.12 o'clock Saturday night by a section of Chicago and St. Louis express, train No. 21, as it was speeding westward over the middle division. Rowland and several others were walking up the track to the show sleeping cars when the accident occurred and the train came upon the party before they realized their danger. The other narrowly escaped while Rowland was hit and hurled to one side of the track. When his fellow showmen reached him he was dead.

George Arthur Rowland was aged 39 years and was an Englishman. He was the proprietor and manager of the Tally-Ho troupe of performers composed of himself and wife and five others and five horses. The troupe received $800 per week for their turn with the circus. For two seasons he was with the Barnum & Bailey circus and this season was the first with the Hagenbeck & Wallace show. He is survived by his wife, who drove the tally-ho team, and four children, at a boarding school in England. The body was given over to Undertaker Dick to prepare for burial and Sunday night was taken by his wife and members of his troupe to New York city, where interment will be made.

At Clearfield on Friday night as the Hagenbeck & Wallace show was being loaded for the run to Huntingdon a shifting engine ran down and killed one of the show horses, while ten others made a narrow escape.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Wonderful Output of Iron.

We have two furnaces in Bellefonte that the people of the town can feel proud of. They give employment to a great many men who spend their hard earned cash right here in the town and we feel like encouraging a plant of this kind. We had occasion to visit the Nittany furnace on Sunday and found every man as busy as could be. Since the furnace has been repaired the iron made there has been of the best quality and not only that, but during the month of May they broke all previous records as to the amount made. The past 16 days of May they manufactured on an average of 136 tons every 24 hours, and during the entire month 4011 tons were put out. The company has an open market for all they manufacture.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, ghawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retro-version or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

THE COLD BATH.

Many Men Say They Like It, but They Don't Like It.

In a paper read at a meeting of an association for the study of tuberculosis an eminent doctor said that one of the curious facts connected with the practice of the cold bath in the morning is that so many of its votaries positively declare that they enjoy it. He contends that they do not and cannot enjoy it. The doctor is doubtless right as far as he goes, but he does not go far enough. He misses the main point, perhaps the only point worth emphasizing.

There is abundant reason to believe that the most curious fact connected with the cold bath in the morning is that so many people who insist that they enjoy it do not take it. There is vicarious atonement, and there is also vicarious bathing, and it is a very easy matter to enjoy a bath that is not taken, the bath of somebody else. Almost anybody gifted with a little imagination can sing the praises of a cold bath in the morning. There are the pleasurable, even delightful, shudders of the first dip and splash; the brisk rub with a coarse crash towel; the warm, health giving glow; the new man feeling, exhilarating, uplifting, as one gets into his attire for the day's work, and, above all, the sense of cleanliness imparted by the cold bath every morning.

And it is equally easy to take a cold bath every morning. It only remains to turn on the hot water faucet and enter the tub. Or both faucets may be turned on and, without entering the tub, one may stir the water violently with his hands, draw long breaths and shiver, not perceptibly, but audibly It will all sound remarkably lifelike, this performance, wonderfully like taking a cold bath. Even an alert and suspicious sentinel, stationed at the door, his ear delicately attuned to what is going on within, may be readily deceived by the cold bath in the morning.

Contemplate, some broiling August forenoon, the man who tells you that he fairly revels in the cold bath on winter mornings as he gingerly steers his bare feet through the ripples that are lazily lapping the beach at a shore resort, and believe in him and trust him if you can. Watch him advance as if he were going to meet his doom, hesitate, glance shoreward longingly, retreat, immersing himself slowly, reluctantly, inch by inch. Suddenly he remembers that he must wet his head if he would avoid a chill, and he pauses to shampoo his hair in the sad sea waves—this hero of a thousand frigid baths on a thousand frozen mornings!

As a matter of fact, what a man may do alone with his sponge in his bathroom no other man may know, and what he pretends he does may be as "false as dicers' oaths."—Providence Tribune.

Had a Slow but Sure Gait.

There have been numerous disappointments in the outcome of some of the boys. We remember one boy in particular who was the butt of all ridicule from the boys of his age, and he took it good naturedly. He seemed to have no particular friends and herded by himself. His clothes always looked funny, and he had that awkward swagger over which the rest of us had much sport. No one ever thought that that plug would ever get anywhere or have anything. But today that plug is drawing a better salary than any two of the old gang. He has more money, more influence and more friends than any of the rest of us. The plug had a gait that was slow, but it was sure. He didn't appear to be a bit bright then, but he had a surface that took on a polish.—Westphalia (Mo.) Times.

Yet He Didn't Need Them.

He had been calling on a young lady for many moons; but, being backward, his suit progressed slowly. Finally she decided it was up to her to start something, so the next time he called she pointed to the rose in his buttonhole and said:

"I'll give you a kiss for that rose." A large, open face blush meandered over his countenance, but the exchange was made. Then he grabbed his hat and started to leave the room.

"Why, where are you going?" she asked in surprise.

"To the—er—florist for more roses," he exclaimed.

They Wouldn't Salute.

Black Jack Percival, who was a naval captain in the old days, once brought a cargo of Spanish jacks home in a man-of-war. He was in Spanish waters when the jacks were given to the United States by Spain and was ordered to bring them out in his ship. It made him angry, but he got the beasts aboard and sailed for New York. When he came through the Narrows the guns had been rolled back, and out of every port there stuck a jack's head. Thus decked out and without a salute, he came to his anchorage. The admiral commanding sent posthaste to demand why Captain Percival had not saluted. "I didn't salute," was the doughty captain's answer, "because I couldn't. I had two men twisting every jack's tail, but not a blanketed one of them would bray."

The Only Drawback.

Mary—Did she make a good match? Ann—Splendid! Lots of money, good social position and all that! In fact, the only drawback is the husband."

A Hero.

A boatful of ladies and officers going to a picnic was swamped in crossing an East Indian river. A lady and an officer clung to an oar. "It is not enough for two," said the man. "Say goodby for me to the regiment." Then he left his hold of the oar and of life. It is easy to see that a romance might be founded on this, but these are the plain facts."

Do You Like Honest, Square Dealing?

Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines are put out under the belief that publicity is the best possible guaranty of merit, and that the most intelligent people generally want to know what they take into their stomachs, whether it be as food, drink or medicine. Although it was a bold step to take, and quite out of the usual practice of makers of proprietary medicines, yet Dr. Pierce, some time ago, decided to publish broadcast and on all his bottle-wrappers all the ingredients entering into the composition, or make-up, of his celebrated family medicines. A square deal is therefore assured every one using his medicines, for one knows exactly what he or she is paying for when purchasing them, since every ingredient is published in plain English on the bottle-wrappers and the correctness of the same attested under solemn oath. These several ingredients are selected from among the very best known to medical science for the cure of the various diseases for which these medicines are recommended.

The most eminent and leading medical teachers and writers of all the several schools of practice have endorsed each of the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines in the strongest possible terms. The makers of Dr. Pierce's medicines believe that intelligent people do not wish to open their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulp down whatever is presented to them, either in the way of food, drink or medicine, without knowing something of the properties and harmless character of the agents employed. They believe that health is too sacred a heritage to be experimented with, and that people should not take medicines of the composition of which they are kept in ignorance. Dr. Pierce's medicines are made wholly from the roots of plants found growing in the depths of our American forests. They are so compounded that they cannot do harm in any case, even to the most delicate woman or child. By open publicity Dr. Pierce has taken his medicines out of the list of secret nostrums, of doubtful merit, and made them REMEDIES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. They are therefore, in a class all by themselves, being absolutely and in every sense non-secret.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

There is a badge of honesty on every bottle of Dr. Pierce's medicines in the full list of its ingredients duly attested as correct under solemn oath.

No other medicines put up for general use through druggists can make claim to any such distinction, and none other than Dr. Pierce's medicines have any such professional endorsement of their ingredients. Such professional endorsement should have far more weight with the afflicted than any amount of lay, or non-professional, endorsement, or testimonials.

Of course, the exact proportion of each ingredient used in Dr. Pierce's medicines as well as the working formula or manner of preparing the same, and the specially devised apparatus and appliances employed in their manufacture, are withheld from publicity that Dr. Pierce's proprietary rights may be fully protected from such unprincipled imitators as might be piratically inclined.

The preparation of these medicines without the use of a drop of alcohol, so generally employed and yet so harmful, in the long run, to most invalids when its use is long continued, even in small doses, cost Dr. Pierce several years of careful study and labor, with the aid of skilled pharmacists and chemists to assist him. Naturally, he does not care to give away his scientific and exact processes for preparing these medicines, but he does want to deal in the most open manner with all his patrons and patients, and under this frank, open and honest way of dealing, they may know exactly what they are taking when using his medicines.

What Do They Cure? This question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative and healing way upon all the mucous lining surfaces as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in effecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR
for children; safe, sure. No opiates
For sale by C M Parrish.

More News from the New England States.

If any one has any doubt as to the virtue of Foley's Kidney Cure, they need only to refer to Mr. Alvin Stimpson, of Willimantic, Conn., who after almost losing hope of resovery, on account of the failure of so many remedies, finally tried Foley's Kidney Cure, which he says was "just the thing" for him, as four bottles cured him completely. He is now entirely well and free from all suffering incident to acute kidney trouble.

Kidney complaint kills more people than any other disease. This is due to the disease being so insidious that it gets a good hold on the system before it is recognized. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent the developement of fatal disease if taken in time.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is best for women and children. Its mild action and pleasant tase makes it preferable to violent purgatives such as pills, tablets, etc. Get the booklet and a sample of Oreno at C. M. Parrish.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bullet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

I will mail you free, too prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken there nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves". Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—The Academy Reception will be held next Friday evening.

—The Dale Reunion will be held at Oak Hall on Saturday August 30th 1907.

—George Johnson who is employed by the Fuel Supply Co. is confined to his home with typhoid fever.

—The Undine Fire Company received an invitation to turn out with the old soldiers on Thursday, but for some reathey did not do so.

—Mrs. Sarah Walters an aged and respected lady of Woodward, an aunt of Doctor Hafer of Bellefonte passed away on Sunday evening.

—Tell you what, the Centre Democrat is certainly ripping it into the Gazette and its boss, but still that is a good advertizement for their paper.

—Daniel Howard who attempted to take his life several weeks ago by cutting his throat with a razor was taken to the Danville asylum Friday morning at 6:40 by Snyder Tate.

—In the financial statement made by the A. M. E. church on Wednesday. we stated that Mr. Jackson had collected $45.75. We wish to make a correction and say he collected $75.45.

—On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. John P. Harris entertained at their home on Linn street in honor of Miss Weaver and Mr. Childs whose wedding occured Wednesday evening.

—The ground near the Potter Hoy Hardwaree Co. ware house has been broken, and Mr. McCafferty expects to erect several dwelling houses theron. It will be a big improvement to this end of town, —Mrs. Margaret Heylman Weis, a sister of J. G. Heylman of Pellefonte died on Tuesday evening at her home at Trout Run Pa. Shewas buried Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Mr. J. G. Heylman attended the funeral.

—John Ammerman Jr., George Walk, Hugh Carson, and George Merriman were taken to the Western Penitentiary Friday morning. They were accompanied by Sheriff Henry Kline, William Royer and John Love.

—Miss Helen Hamilton, daughter of Conductor William Hamilton, of the Central R. R. of Pa., and Miss Julia McClellen, entertained forty-eight of their young friends at Hecla Park on Thursday. All report having a delightful time.

—The progressive euchre held in the Parrish Hall Thursday evening was a success in every way. 16 tables were kept going all evening. The first prize was a large porch swing, won by Miss Sue Curry. The gentleman's prize was a box of ties, won by Mr. Evey.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Raymond took charge of the Bellefonte poor house Saturday, a change made necessary because of the very serious illness of Mrs. Levi Whippo, who with her husband has been in charge of the poor house the past two years.

—The Willowbank Scrubs defeated the Forge boys in base ball Thursday to a score of 18-8. After the game the Forge boys put the cleaner on the town boys and it is said you could see the Willowbank Scrubs coming into town over all roads and hills. Clair Miller the young clerk at Sechlers store was leading the defeated hosts in a magnificent manner. The Forge boys also got the balls and bats.

—There is universal complaint among the farmers throughout Centre county over the scarcity of farm help. Whereas here tofore farmers have paid sixteen and eighteen dollars a month, with house rent, cow pasture, fruit, etc., free, now farm hands are demanding from twenty to twenty-five dollars a a month with the same perquisites, while single men want from $1.00 to $1.25 a day with the privilage of a horse and buggy whenever desired. This condition is due entirely to the better wages paid at industrial establishments, with the additional allurements of town or city life.

—Mrs. Crittenden, taking care of her sick daughter, Mrs. Burns Crider, on Linn St. Wednesday evening about 10 o'clock, fell from the top of the back stairs to the hall floor below, receiving a severe concussion of the head and bruises on other parts of her body. Dr. Seibert quickly responded to the call and dressed her wounds. Mr. Howard Curtain who was passing at the time and Mrs. Quigley kindly rendered their needed service. It cannot be otherwise than that a special providence prevented more serious injury. Though suffering from the painful shock, she is better today than could be expected under the circumstances.

—Frank Naginey had the misfortune of losing a splendid house on Wednesday.

—Sheriff Woodering had the misfortune of loosing a valuable horse on Friday.

—Col. Hugh S. Taylor delivered he Memorial address at Pine Grove Mills on Thursday.

—General Beaver deliverd the Memorial address at Beech Creek Thursday morning.

—W. Lenker of Harrisburg is acting brakeman on the L. & T. during Lee Bieber's absence, —Mrs. Wade Cruse and little baby girl were taken from the Bellefonte hospital to their home on east Lamb street Thursday afternoon.

—The Wallace Run Lumber Company are now running full time. Manufacturing all kinds of bill stuff and plank, and boards.

—A party was held at the Nittany Club on Saturday night in honor of Miss Mary Harris Weaver. Fifteen of her "crowd" were present.

—Mr. Howard Lingle and Mr. Joseph Montgomery entertained a party at the Nittany Club on Friday evening in honor of Miss Lingle and Mr. Ruger.

—The Hecla Park team put the cleaner on the Bellefonte Originals on Thursday at the Park. The score was 6-9 in favor of the Hecla team.

—The many friends of Mrs. Alamson Ottis, nee Aurora Moore, will be pleased to hear that a little daughter has come to live with them in their Philadelphia home.

—The entire indebtedness on the Methodist Episcopal church has been wiped out and now the church is on "Easy" street. On Sunday the last of $4 557 was raised.

—Grizzley Rhoads beat the base drum so hard in the Coleville band on Memorial Day that he broke the drum stick. That didn't matter to him, he went right ahead and used his fist.

—Mrs. Robert Irwin took seriously ill on Saturday suffering from hemorages of the nose, and for some time her condition was critical. She is much better today although very weak.

—The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Young is not well, and on Sunday Rev. W. H. Spangler baptized the infant. She is a cute little girl and it is sincerely hoped that she may live a long, useful life.

—The many friends of Mrs. Jonas Wagner will feel very sorry to hear that she is very seriously ill at her home on Penn street. The hosts of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wagner sincerely hope that she will speedily recover.

—J. E. Dunning, who the past winter was one of the successful teachers in the Bellefonte High school, last week sent his household goods to Osceola Mills where he and his wife will take up their residence while Mr. Dunning is pursuing his studies for the ministry.

—The Harrisburg Patriot says current gossip reports that Judge Beaver may retire from the Superior Court bench in order that he may devote his entire time to his duties as president of State College. Judge Beaver has filled the position since the death of President Atherton.

—On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Clark Snyder left Bellefonte for Shamokin where they will make their future home. Mr. Snyder who is a blacksmith, having rented a shop of his own in that city. The house they occupied on south Allegheny street will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Leary.

—William Hess, of Philipsburg, but who is well known throughout the entire western end of the county, as he is a native of Ferguson township, suffered a second stroke of paralysis last Saturday evening, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ida Rothrock. It is the earnest hope of his many friends that he will recover.

—Thursday of last week Conrad Miller, of this place, finished the abutments for the inter-county bridge over the Beech Creek at Hubbards. The iron superstructure is expected in a few days when it will be placed in position and then, for the first time since the old bridge was washed away in the flood of 1902, will travelers be able to cross that stream on bridge.

—Some one up on Spring street between the Centre county bank and the Presbyterian church has a dog that sings a solo every night. Don't know who the animal belongs to and we don't care, but we do think he or she should be penned up and let the neighbors sleep. The dogs over the town must have had a convention during the night, soon after the one on Spring street began singing a half dozen others gathered and joined in.

—Marion E. Lutz the pretty little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lutz received a present of a magnificent violin from her parents for not being absent from school one day during the entire term of nine months. Her sister Vivian only missed three days and that was on account of sickness These little girls are certainly to be complimented, and the parents can feel proud to have two daughters such as these are.

SATURDAY'S PRIMARIES.

Small Turnout all over the County on Account of Bad Weather.

The primaries on Saturday were hardly noticeable. The votes cast all over the county were very small. The reason was on the account of the unclement weather that prevailed all afternoon and night. The new law seems to be a success and after the citizens become better acquainted with it they will all fall in line.

In the borough of Bellefonte Col. Chambers was selected by the Republicans for District Attorney and William Grow Runkle was chosen by the Democrat party. Both gentlemen received 61 votes apiece at the primaries The vote cast was as follows:

NORTH WARD—REPUBLICAN.
